

ARMED REVOLT, PLAN OF ANARCHISTS

TEN FIRES START
OFF NEW YEARFiremen Kept Busy in First Three Days by Alarms.

COLD WEATHER RESPONSIBLE

High Figure.

Ten fires within the first three days of the new year has established a new fire record for the city of Lima. Minor blazes caused by sparks falling on roofs, overheated furnaces bringing basement fires, however caused a low fire damage rate until the home of E. T. Mitchell, banker, 548 west Market street, was gutted and practically destroyed Saturday afternoon.

Consistently cold weather, necessitating constant heating of homes has brought with it, the ten fires. To this cause, Chief Mack places the blame for the numerous calls.

The Mitchell fire capped the climax of three days of hard work on the part of the firemen, and proved to be one of the most stubborn blazes that has come to the attention of the local department for some time.

The exact damage caused by the blaze could not be estimated even late Saturday night, due to the saturation of practically every article in the home, by not only water, but also smoke. It, however, will run very heavy, Chief Mack says.

Three departments responded to the call and laid three lines of hose to the fire. The blaze had started from an overheated furnace in the basement of the Mitchell home. There was no one in the house at the time. Firemen found it necessary to break in the door to gain entrance to the building. Neighbors who had seen volumes of smoke pouring from out the house, had turned in the alarm.

While firemen were fighting this blaze, another at the home of Dr. S. S. Hermann, 409 east Market street, the tenth blaze within the past three days, called one of the three remaining departments into action. Sparks falling from a nearby chimney had set the roof afire. Little damage resulted.

"We expected a large run of fires around this time of the year," Chief Mack declared Saturday night, "due to the cold weather. There are a great many old homes in Lima that will easily catch fire from an overheated furnace or sparks falling on the roofs. The people should be constantly on the lookout for these kind of blazes and should be prepared to avert them."

"The Mitchell fire Saturday afternoon was a large example of what an overheated furnace will do. We found, what we got there, that volumes of smoke had filled the house. It was almost impossible for a time to discover where the blaze was, but we finally located it. By that time, however, the flames had mounted to the attic of the frame building."

Chief Mack said that the blaze had started directly above the furnace, and directly under a wall thereby spreading in four directions. Residents of the home, who arrived at the scene of the blaze about the same time as the fire department, were assisted by onlookers in removing the furniture from the house.

It was understood that a very valuable quantity of furs locked in a second floor room, were ruined by the fire.

The cold weather which froze the coats worn by firemen as they worked, handicapped them a great deal by stiffening their action.

The fire was the largest of any of the past three days. The damage is expected to amount between $10,000 or $15,000. It is fully covered by insurance. The other nine blazes, according to Chief Mack, did hardly $100 damage, altogether. Fast work on the part of the fire department averted serious damage in many instances.

A complete list of the fires since Dec. 31 follows:

January 1—11:10 A. M. Buckeye paper stock company, 657 north Jackson street, overheated boiler, damage slight; 9:45 P. M. B. O. Daniels, residence, 342 Garfield, defective fireplace, damage slight.

January 2—5:45 A. M. J. P. Russell, residence, 522 east Franklin, defective stove, damage slight; 4:15 P. M. White Mountain Creamery company, auto truck, backfire, damage slight; 7:22 P. M. W. D. Early, 955 north Elizabeth street, residence, overheated furnace, damage slight.

January 3—7:55 A. M. F. Meyers, residence, 606 west Market street, overheated furnace, damage slight; 9:55 A. M. Fred Murray, residence, 514 east Vine street, defective stove, damage slight; 11:45 A. M. Roma Apartments, south Pierce street, furnace exploded, damage about $100; 1:10 P. M. E. B. Mitchell, residence, 548 west Market street, overheated furnace, damage heavy. Estimated to exceed $10,000; 1:25 P. M. Dr. S. S. Hermann, residence, 409 east Market street, sparks from chimney, damage slight.

TAX DUPLICATE IS FAR BEHIND

HAS NOT KEPT UP WITH BUILDING

Very Small Increase, Comparatively, Taxation Shown.

YEAR'S BUILDING IS HEAVY

Many New Structures Completed in Last Year.

Lima's property, as shown by the tax lists, has not kept pace with its building growth.

According to figures on file in the office of County Auditor C. R. Phillips, the valuation of taxable property in Lima in the tax year of 1918 was $45,128,660. The valuation in 1919 was $45,703,860, or an increase of $575,200.

Building permits issued during the year, according to figures compiled by James J. Heffner, show that new buildings in Lima during the past year, erected at figures named by their owners, totaled $1,517,652, an increase of $400,000 over any previous year.

"We have done a half of a million dollars' worth of building ourselves the past year," A. J. Dunn, of one of the largest contracting and building firms, said Saturday. "The Frances, west Elm street, was erected at a cost of $100,000 and 'The Olmedo,' west North street, at a cost of $250,000. Both are the last word in apartment houses. Then we have built houses, in smaller contracts, aggregating $100,000.

"The new Argonne hotel, while not completed, is well on the way in construction and will cost $350,000." The Michael and Finkel company, another of the large real estate firms doing big building contracts, erected houses and apartments that cost $120,000, according to S. S. Finkel, member of the company. The largest of these was the three-story apartment building for offices and stores and apartments at Spring and Elizabeth streets, costing $40,000," he said.

Other smaller buildings of the Michael and Finkel company cost $80,000 in construction. The large number of other new buildings over the city indicate the tax duplicate is far behind the building growth of the city.

CONGRESS FACES
HEAVY WORKSolons to Be Met with Busy
Session After Recess.

WASHINGTON—Congress returns to duty Monday after a two weeks' holiday recess and will at once get to work on its piled-up legislative calendar.

The house will take up the Indian appropriation bill the first of 14 appropriation measures which will cost taxpayers between four and five billion dollars.

It also is expected to devote a short time to re-affirming its action in barring Victor Berger, the Socialist who was elected from the fifth congressional district after he had once been refused a seat because of his alleged seditious speeches.

The senate returns with the peace treaty still the uppermost in the minds of senators. Leaders on both sides are hopeful of adjustment.

Discussion of the "red" roundup by the government is expected in connection with debate on the Sterling sedition bill Monday.

The Underwood motion for a constitutional commission on the treaty will also be called up the coming week. On Thursday the commerce committee will begin hearings preliminary to enacting legislation upon a permanent merchant marine policy.

A sub-committee of the foreign relations committee will open an investigation of Russian propaganda on Friday. The sub-committee investigating Mexico affairs will conduct hearings both on the border and in Washington. Definite plans will be made Tuesday for investigation of navy awards.

Conferees on the Esch and Cummins railroad bills and on the oil land leasing bills, will continue effort to reach agreement. Senator LaFollette is expected to announce soon the date for beginning an inquiry into the print paper situation.

Ambassador Joseph E. Willard (above) and Admiral Benton C. Decker. Joseph E. Willard, U. S. ambassador to Spain, who was recently charged by Admiral Benton C. Decker with having been actively opposed to Admiral Decker's efforts to keep Spain from joining the central empires in 1918, replies that Spain never even remotely contemplated entering the war against the allies. Admiral Decker thinks he kept Spain out of the war and is therefore entitled to the distinguished service medal instead of the navy cross, which has been awarded him.

What Kind of a Woman. In Your Estimation, Does a Man Most Admire?

ANSWERS
MRS. FRANK M. BELL—"In this day and age, the woman men admire most is the one who knows a great deal, but keeps it to herself. She is able to act quickly and promptly, but never talks about it. She must be unselfish enough and sympathetic to care for the trial of the home. She may get spunky, but with that, she must be sunny about it. Good natured, you know."

DETECTIVE JOE REED—"The kind that keeps her mouth shut and attends to her own business—that's me."

MISS MAYME DUGAN, marriage license clerk—"The woman, of course, the one who is not too tired when he comes home at night to greet him, arrayed in her best clothes and with a smile, always ready to enter his plans and forget her own individuality."

ATTORNEY WALTER GERSTENLAUER—"Give me the old-fashioned woman, the kind who can cook and keep house, loves children and who goes in for things domestic—the kind that mother used to be. This kind is so rare nowadays one can't help but admire her."

COUNTY PROBATION OFFICER JULIUS CALLAHAN—"It has been my observation that the woman possessed of much money is generally the one most sought after."

ADMIRAL GETS FLEETING GLIMPSE OF WIFE

NEW YORK—Admiral Viscount Jellicoe, former commander of the British grand fleet, had a brief respite in his strenuous entertainment here Saturday afternoon, while he saw Lady Jellicoe between her arrival from Ottawa here Saturday morning and her departure on the Adriatic for England at 5 o'clock. Sunday morning he will leave for Washington, where he will be extensively entertained.

COUNCIL TO PASS
ON LIGHT RATESMay Pass Temporary Legislation to Handle Situation.

THREE PLANS ARE POSSIBLE

Caucus on Franchises Will Be Held Tomorrow.

The city council, at the first meeting of the new year Monday night, may take up the passage of an ordinance, calculated to offset the new schedule of rates filed by the Ohio Electric railway, with the public utilities commission at Columbus.

The new rates, which become effective January 15, provide an increase in the price to be paid for light for domestic consumption and power for Lima's industries.

If suggestions made to council and to City Solicitor H. Edmund Garling, by M. C. Light, former city solicitor, this will be the action Garling will advise council to take. Light sent a letter to council to this effect:

"I represented to council the situation of the protests I had filed with the public utilities commission," he said Saturday. "Twice they refused to heed these complaints, preferring council and the Ohio Electric get together here."

"Unless some measure is taken, the new increase in rates will become effective. I suggested a temporary ordinance, to be passed by council, to nullify the effect of the new schedule filed with the utilities commission. The temporary ordinance will cover the period from now until permanent franchises can be worked out." Light stated.

The increase will be half a cent a kilowatt for domestic lighting and industrial power. Electric lights over the city will be increased from $57.50 to $63.50. As there are 344 lights in Lima, the difference a month will be more than $2,000.

City Solicitor Garling said, as he viewed the situation, there was three ways in which the matter might be handled. Either to pass the temporary ordinance, mandamus the public utilities commission to receive the complaints or allow the new rates to become effective for the short time until the new ordinance could be made ready for passage.

A meeting of City Solicitor Garling and Attorneys George H. Quail, Walter Jackson and W. L. Parmenter, representing the Citizens' committee, was held at which time it was announced the new ordinances were almost ready for presentation to council.

Garling stated he is making a comparison of these ordinances and would report the best and the least expensive plan by which council may proceed to take care of the people's rights.

He was opposed to the mandamus procedure, he stated, because the commission might appeal to the supreme court and the hearing delayed until next summer. The expense, too, would be great, Garling said, to the taxpayers.

A caucus will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, it was announced Saturday, to take action in advance of the regular council meeting at the Ohio Electric franchise.

Mayor Simpson succeeded in keeping a member of the old machine in office by appointing A. E. Gale one of the sinking fund trustees on December 15, it was made known Saturday, when F. B. Hoyer's resignation came to light. Hoyer is out of the city.

HOLDS GIRL DID
NOT KILL MANAttorney General Convinced Vester Woman Is Innocent.

DETROIT, Mich.—Cecil Beatrice Vester did not kill J. Stanley Brown, Mount Clemens clubman, in the opinion of Attorney General Grosbeck.

The attorney general who since late Friday has been conducting a personal inquiry into the death of young Brown said Saturday night he was "satisfied Mrs. Vester had nothing to do with the crime."

She will be released Monday following a further questioning tomorrow in which authorities hope to get new facts relative to Brown's habits, his friends and especially his enemies, Grosbeck said.

Following the close of the investigation for the week-end late Saturday, Gladys Summit, whose testimony it was that caused the Vester woman to be arrested and charged directly with the slaying of Brown was released. Ben Sorenson, a Camp Custer soldier and sweetheart of the Vester woman also was released.

The hearing will be resumed at 2 p. m. Monday, Grosbeck said. He said he expected to call all members of the Prevost family as witnesses.

The shoes and clothes of Lloyd Prevost now held in the Macomb county jail as a material witness were brought to the office of the attorney general and his associates late Saturday. They will be subjected to minute inspection Saturday night and Sunday in an effort to learn some new facts regarding Prevost's alleged connection with the case.

Grosbeck was well pleased with the turn the inquiry was taking. He intimated the fixing of responsibility for Brown's death was only a matter of hours but refused to be quoted.

Mrs. Ruth Brown, the girl widow was called back for further questioning Saturday and then allowed to go home again.

Ted Wilde, a taxicab driver with whom Brown had had trouble, testified during the afternoon. He bought a 32 calibre revolver which the officials had requested him to produce. The slaying was committed with a 38 calibre weapon.

DEFINITE PLAN IS at Present.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET TODAY

Both Lodge and Hitchcock May Be Ignored.

WASHINGTON.—Leaders among senate democrats, mild reservationists and Lodge reservationists spoke hopefully Saturday night of a peace treaty compromise some time this month. But there is no basis of compromise in sight. Any definite suggestion that is submitted immediately leads to the question:

"Will President Wilson accept it?" Nobody in the senate appears to know the answer.

Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia said Saturday democratic strong reservationists will meet at his home Sunday afternoon to see how nearly their views conform to those of the republican "mild reservationists."

While senators continue to confer and talk hopefully the demand from the country for ratification apparently is growing. Many senators report their mail is filled with demands that the treaty be ratified in some manner.

They are being impressed there is strong evidence, with the results of polls being taken by newspapers, chamber of commerce and other organizations in many states, all of which show sentiment in favor of some kind of ratification. In fact, many of these polls call for ratification without reservation or change in any form.

The criticism with treaty opponents voiced of earlier polls, namely that they were taken mostly among school teachers, clerks and professional people who would be expected to favor an idealistic plan, cannot be applied to present polls, a leading "mild reservationist" said Saturday.

He has ample evidence, he says, that the horse sense of the country is "talking" thru business men and workers who want normal conditions restored and expect treaty ratification to help.

In the absence of any other definite move the next step is expected to be calling up of the Underwood resolution for an appointment of an official conciliatory committee of ten senators. Senator Hitchcock who at first was lukewarm toward this now favors it and it seems likely that it will receive practically unanimous democratic support and enough republican votes to win unless the Lodge forces produce something definite in the way of compromise in the meantime.

The informal Sunday conference at Senator Smith's house is agreed upon following a meeting with Senator McFarley of the republican "mild reservationists" and Senator Smith.

It is understood the two senators agreed that the best route to a compromise is to ignore entirely the present leaders, Lodge and Hitchcock.

The democratic meeting may not draft definitely proposals they are meeting with the avowed purpose of eliminating two or three stumbling blocks. It is believed they will endorse in some form the reservation on Article Ten and the Locust resolution.

This probably will cause a definite break from Senator Hitchcock, administration leader.

MYSTERY CLOTHES
HETRICK DEATHTelephone Call Leaves Only Clew in Shooting.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—The killing of Major Harold Hetrick, Kansas City, U. S. army engineer, in command of the New Orleans district, Saturday night was shrouded in mystery.

Hetrick died in a local hospital early Saturday from bullet wounds received at his home here Thursday. He regained consciousness long enough to declare he did not know his assailant, had never seen him and did not know why he was shot.

A mysterious telephone call is being investigated by the police in an effort to throw some light on the attack.

"No, I won't see you today," Hetrick is alleged to have told his caller. "I won't talk to you. Come to the office tomorrow. I have records there."

When Hetrick left the telephone, Mrs. Hetrick told the police she said: "You didn't like that man did you?"

Another theory advanced is that the murderer was a burglar.

REIGN OF TERROR

Public Evidence Secured.

MANY REDS ARE STILL HELD

Work Preliminary to Deportation
Is Being Speeded.

WASHINGTON.—An armed revolution against the government and established institutions on the United States with a reign of terror was the avowed purpose of leaders of the 4500 radicals arrested in all parts of the country by federal agents, the department of justice revealed Saturday night.

The big drive against foreign revolutionists is still continuing and will be carried on until all the warrants have been served.

Forty-five hundred was given by department officials as their best estimate of the number of suspects taken into custody after their arrest because the evidence against them was not considered sufficiently conclusive to justify prosecution or deportation proceedings.

They were freed after cross-examination, Justice officials said they "had the goods" on 2,537 of the 4500 that have passed thru their hands and that number is being held. This total probably will be increased later.

The evidence in the plot for an armed revolution in this country leads first from the left wing of the socialist party of America which refused to back this country in the war, then to the third international conference in Moscow 1919 and back to the United States thru the formation here last September of the communist and communist labor parties the department said.

The dangerous along already had started the collection of bombs, rifles and other war materials. A stock of military equipment was found at Newark, N. J., and hundreds of weapons were taken from individuals in other parts of the country, it was announced.

The communist parties were rapidly extending their activities to all parts of the country, the evidence shows. In their program was a general uprising of negroes whom they expected to arm.

Efforts also were being made, it was stated to gain control of all labor organizations with the cry, "Down with Capitalism!"

Appraisals were made by leaders of the communists for violence and bloodshed in the two recent strikes—those of the miners and the steel workers. Radical alien agitators traveled all over the country urging strikes and other labor troubles, hoping thus to bore from within and lead the large number of American workmen into their organization. Much of the present unrest, the evidence shows can be checked up to them.

Twenty-five communist newspapers were started in cities throughout the country and tons of revolutionary literature were printed. Most of the alien editors have been caught in the big raid.

The department of justice declared it has conclusive evidence indicating that the whole campaign was being directed by the Bolshevik government of Russia. The United States, rich in resources, was the first stronghold of democracy that Lenin and Trotsky desired to "sovietize." The whole program was to establish the same form of government in this country that Russia now has.

The department now has under surveillance leaders known to be direct agents of Bolshevism in this country, and a few personal emissaries of Lenin and Trotsky are likely to be arrested in the near future, it was learned.

The government will allow those arrested to have hearings, if they desire to make an effort to prove they were not participants in the revolutionary plot. These will be made by the labor department, subject to review by federal courts only upon the issuance of a writ of habeas corpus. Ring-leaders in the plot will be released upon $10,000 bail.

Bail for others will be fixed in varying amounts from $1,000 to $10,000, in the discretion of the secretary of labor.

A number of Americans of revolutionary sympathy were caught. They will be turned over to the states for prosecution. Ten states have drastic laws for American advocates of force an violence against the government.

These are Kansas, Washington, Oregon, Illinois, New York, Massachusetts, Indiana, West Virginia and North Dakota.

Evidence made public by the justice department states that the communist and labor communist took manifestos of Lenin and Trotsky at the third international conference at Moscow last September and made it in pamphlet form.

this country. Every member swore to adhere to its principle, according to the evidence.

"The dethroned dynasties of the Romanoffs, Hohenzollerns and Hapsburgs and the capitalistic cliques of these lands, the rulers of France, England, Italy and the United States sat down in the light of unfolding events and diplomatic disclosures in their immeasurable dilemma," the manifesto says. "The revolutionary era compels the proletariat to make use of the means of battle which will concentrate its entire energies against mass action by its resultant, direct conflict with the governmental machinery in open combat. All other methods such as the use of Bourgeoisie parliamentarism will be only of secondary importance."

Registration of those who were interned at Ellis Island were not completed Saturday night and officials declared it would take two days or more to prepare the aliens for individual inquiry.

Provisions have been made for the accommodation for many others who were expected to land at the island during the night along with the present crowd the immigration bureau is taking to capacity. Government officials obtained blankets and most of those who were held were forced to sleep on the floor.

A strict watch was kept and no one was allowed to talk with the prisoners except the clerks who conducted the registration.

The work of registration will continue through Sunday, in an effort to hasten the individual inquiries so that officials may bring about a speedy deportation of those who are held guilty.

42 BEING HELD

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—Forty-two persons were held here Saturday night for deportation out of the 100, taken in the local hunt for radicals. Two women are among those federal officials here will attempt to deport.

Immigration Inspector Flucker said he will immediately recommend to the secretary of labor the deportation of the 42 and others who may be rounded up on the grounds that they are undesirable and plotted against the government. Bliss Morton, federal agent who directed the Cleveland raids, said he believed the total for deportation here will reach sixty.

Most of those held are Russians, Austrians, Hungarians and Germans make up the balance. All were said to be members of the communist party.

More arrests are expected. Among the places raided was the headquarters of the communist party. Lists of the membership of the communist and other radical organizations were seized. Morton said that all the names on these lists will be investigated with the expectation of rounding up more of the agitators.

That the raids were expected was shown by a copy of the Socialist News of Detroit, which contained an article warning its subscribers under the head "Legal Don'ts to Members of the Communist Party."

"If you are rounded up do not give any information about the communist party, principles, tactics, interpretation of the manifesto and program members, activities and plans. If they ask you whether you are a member, refuse to answer."

Morton said many persons listed for arrest left the city early Friday, evidently scenting the raids.

NAB MANY REDS

CHICAGO — Uncle Sam revolutionized the lives of numerous revolutionists here Saturday when his agents nabbed 346 alleged Reds. He promised direct action against the prisoners.

"The cases against these men will be proved before the arrests are made," John T. Creighton, special assistant to the attorney general, said Saturday night. "There will be quick action for all of them."

The captives here will be taken before the immigration commissioner this week, Creighton said. The commissioner will accept their affidavits and fix bonds. Evidence against the prisoners will be sent to the labor department which issues the immigration bureau and is for release or deportation.

Some from the capital.

346 under arrest here were taken from police stations to the city jail Saturday. State's Attorney Hoyne expected to add to the list with his independent raids on "reds." He is interested especially in those who have violated laws, he said.

When Reds caught in his net will be turned over to federal operatives. Two and federal officers worked in harmony Saturday despite the two year's day raids by the states attorney, which the government representative say "tipped" a number of prospective prisoners that trouble was brewing. Hoyne previously had charged breach of faith in that federal operatives failed to support him in his Thursday night raids.

A number of Chicagoans prominent in radical activities continued missing Saturday night.

WORK IS SPEEDED

NEW YORK — The government was working rapidly Saturday night to prepare for deportation of aliens who were arrested Friday night and Saturday in the country-wide drive against the reds. More than 300 men and women arrested in New York and vicinity already are interned at Ellis Island where final hearings in their cases were expected to begin Monday. At the same time, it was understood that other groups of radicals were being assembled at various parts of the country for immediate deportation to Ellis Island.

The number of aliens caught in the raids was so large it was estimated that an entire fleet of ships would be required to deport them. The transport Buford, the original

MANY ARKS WILL SAIL SOON

Red Revolution Is Broken Up by Raids.

HUNDREDS TO BE DEPORTED

Revised List Showing Arrests in Various Cities.

"The communist revolution" which was to have established a soviet government in the United States apparently has been crushed in the making thru the nation-wide round-up of reds.

The department of justice in Washington estimated Saturday night that more than 4,500 members of the communist and communist labor parties, including hundreds of women were taken in custody in the raids which were conducted simultaneously from coast to coast Friday night and Saturday.

Hundreds of those arrested were released after examination by federal officials. The majority, however, were held for deportation hearings. It was said that most of the prisoners were aliens. These were started for Ellis Island by trains and boats as fast as their preliminary hearing could be disposed of. More than 300 had arrived there at Saturday.

Immigration officials intimated that an entire fleet of "anarchist arks" might soon leave for Europe with deportees. The first boat may leave as early as January 10.

AGED WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Hanna Ransbottom Passes Away at Son's Home.

Mrs. Hannah Ransbottom, 89, died Saturday afternoon at the home of her son, Alonzo Ransbottom, 733 West Elm street. She had been ill seven years, death being due to a complication of diseases.

Three sons and two daughters survive. They are Newton, Frank and Alonzo, at whose home she died. Mrs. B. B. Brower and Mrs. Charles Lawrence, all of Lima. Seventeen grand-children and sixteen great grandchildren are her descendants.

Funeral services, which will be private, will be held Monday at 2 o'clock at the son's home. Rev. C. S. Lehman, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, will officiate. Interment will be made at Woodlawn. Friends who wish to view the body may call at the residence prior to the hour of the services.

"anarchist ark" which left here two weeks ago Sunday for Finland, was last reported nearing Helsinki with everything quiet aboard. It was believed the next "ark" would be ready to leave within a week.

The raids which began here at 9 o'clock Friday night continued far into the forenoon. In all, 675 men and women were rounded up. Of these but 201 were held. The majority of these were aliens. The American citizens, it was believed, will be turned over to state authorities for prosecution.

WILL SHIP REDS

BOSTON, Mass. — Another ship of the recently inaugurated "Red Line" service to Russian ports will sail from Boston within a short time, according to Immigration Commissioner Skeffington.

Bookings for the voyage will be made by federal authorities from among more than 800 "reds" rounded up in Friday night's raids.

Hundreds of the 800 "reds" taken were mobilized at Deer Island in the harbor here Saturday night. Scores of others were arriving from all parts of New England. They came in pairs, handcuffed to chains. Some of the men and women appeared indifferent, others were surly.

The radical ardor of most of the prisoners was somewhat cooled as the steamer Monitor plowed across the harbor in the face of a bitterly cold wind and landed them on Deer Island where they will await deportation proceedings. During the trip they huddled in little groups, chattering excitedly in foreign tongues.

Federal agents were busy all day and Saturday night questioning the prisoners.

PRINCE OF HEARTS BURIED IN FLOWERS BUT TO LIVE LONG

LIMA'S great Prince of Hearts, the man with a smile and a hand-shake for the weak or strong, for the poor or rich, for the crippled or athlete; the man who could not permit a woman to carry a package were he in the neighborhood, the man who has just made 167 homes in this city ring with laughter over toys and witness children with well-stuffed stomachs on a day which he himself does not celebrate religiously, no other than Sam Weinfeld, the irrepressible clubman and humanitarian, lies at St. Rita's Hospital, buried in flowers, mute tributes of friends.

To no one has it been given greater pleasure to order flowers or carry them out, than it has been to the friends of this Prince of Hearts. His illness, bringing about a quick surgical operation, caused the deepest sorrow. Friends called continuously to learn his condition during the past three days. New Years, Friday, Saturday and with innumerable orders for today, florists have been kept busy leaving bundles of floral tokens. Many names of children were on the cards in those boxes; many a tear-stain blotted the ink where in their own handwriting friends had made sure of the personal tribute.

It is Sam Weinfeld, the man of big heart, who has himself remembered more of the sick and the well than any other one man in Lima, who is to live to know that he has all these friends. As he breathes the fragrance of those flowers, they will be worth as much in speeding his recovery as the knife of the surgeon himself.

Sam was much better reports late last night at tested, when the nurse informed The News: "He is doing splendidly; yes, he will recover; no, he cannot see friends as yet, but he may be able to shortly." Thus has the Prince of Hearts lived to have received his crown.

REMAINING TWIN BOY DIES WITHIN TWO DAYS

Silas Dixon, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Dixon, 424 south Scott street died Saturday. Cyrus Dixon, a twin born New Years day, died shortly after birth. Funeral services for the two children will be held Monday at two o'clock at Siferd's mortuary. Rev. E. A. Watkins will officiate. Both will be buried in one casket at Woodlawn.

LATTY FUNERAL TO BE HELD MONDAY

Funeral services for Thomas Edward Latty, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Latty, 158 Weadock avenue, will be held Monday at St. Johns Catholic church. Interment will be in Gethsemani.

Latty died New Year's afternoon from injuries he sustained in a collision of two Big Four trains at Bellefontaine earlier in the day.

BIG TIRE SHIPMENT

What is believed to be the largest single shipment of tires ever received in Lima came by truck to the Bybee Tire and Service company on south Elizabeth street recently as a part of their spring order from the Firestone company. Two trucks were required to haul the six hundred tires and the shipment weighed more than eleven tons. The value is placed roughly at $4,000 and gives some idea of the quantity.

DECIDES AGAINST SUGAR PURCHASE

Cuban Output Not to Be Bought by United States.

ACT WOULD INCREASE PRICE

Tumulty Warns Profiteers in Statement.

WASHINGTON—President Wilson has decided that the 1920 Cuban sugar crop shall not be purchased by the United States under the authority granted by the McNary act, extending for one year the life of the sugar equalization board. Secretary Tumulty announced Saturday night.

Due to unfavorable market conditions for the United States thru the sugar board to appear as a purchaser of the Cuban crop would tend to further increase the price of sugar to American consumers instead of reducing and might result in a considerable financial loss to the government.

A warning to profiteers was contained in Tumulty's statement. "It pointed out that the McNary act prolongs the life of the sugar board to revoke the licenses of dealers who charge unjust prices or who are guilty of unfair practices. This power will be invoked whenever necessary to prevent profiteering, Tumulty warned.

"Apparently the supply of sugar available for consumption in the United States," the statement said, "will be sufficient to meet the demands of consumers even on the present large unnecessary basis of consumption."

Tumulty's statement said in part: "On the basis of the facts present and the conclusion reached by the sugar equalization board, the president has decided that the authority conferred by the McNary sugar act passed on December 20, so far as it involves the purchase and distribution of the Cuban crop by the government, should not be exercised."

"On October 3, the equalization board, thru the president, expressed to the senate committee its view that the Cuban crop for 1920 should and would be purchased provided the powers of control heretofore exercised by the board were continued in full until December 31, 1920, thus enabling the board to see that the consumers should secure a fine sugar with a reasonable price. Conditions have now so changed that the board does not believe that action by it under provisions of the act referred to offers a solution of the problem of securing a regular supply of sugar for the year 1920 at a reasonable price."

"A considerable quantity of the Cuban crop of 1920," has already been sold overseas, and to American refiners. One of the elements which helped materially to make the board's action for the 1919 crop effective no longer exists. The board was able to deal with the unified Cuban selling agency for the 1919 crop and to secure and control the entire crop. Now there is no person or committee authorized to sell the balance of the 1920 Cuban crop. Therefore if the government of the United States thru the board should appear in the Cuban market as a purchaser of the sugar it would have to buy in individual lots, to compete with private buyers and the tendency would be to strengthen the market and further increase the price. Furthermore, it would be compelled to buy sugar at the time of the most adverse market conditions and maximum prices and to seek to stabilize the price on the basis of this maximum or risk a very considerable financial loss."

FUNERAL FOR VICTIM OF ACCIDENT HERE MONDAY

Krisk, 62, who was instantly killed when he was drawn by suction into a coal elevator at the Soar Refinery Saturday, will be held Monday afternoon at the South Side Church of Christ. Cecil Franklin will officiate at the services and burial will be made in Woodlawn.

ARRESTS EXPECTED TO HELP PLACE BLAME FOR FAKE "BOOZE" DEATHS

Several arrests made to date in New York are expected to aid in the general roundup of alleged wood alcohol sellers, whose activities in dispensing the poison as whiskey has caused an ever-increasing number of deaths in the vicinity of New York and in New England. Giovanni Battista Lo Cicero has been formally charged with first degree murder by the authorities of Passaic, N. J., in which town eight persons have died from wood alcohol poisoning. The New York police assert that Lo Cicero had in the cellar of his grocery enough of the poison to kill 8,000 persons. Salvatore Esposito was arrested in connection with the sale of wood alcohol that caused fifty-nine deaths in New England. Another man thought to have been implicated in the sale of the liquor in New England is Samuel K. Saleeby, a Brooklyn druggist. He has been held in $25,000 bail. Saleeby's lawyer, John S. Bennett, has declared that his client "is the victim of an outrageous attempt on the part of the men who are really guilty to make him the 'goat' in this affair."

GRAND JURY WILL MAKE PROBE

Up to It to Get Light on Griffith Girls' Death.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The 15 grand jurors will be given the task of solving the mystery which surrounds the shooting to death of Elizabeth Ford Griffith, 17, here on December 24.

The grand jury meeting January 9, will try its hand at answering two questions which so far have baffled all investigators. These questions are:

Was Elizabeth Ford Griffith murdered or did she commit suicide?

If she was murdered, who was the murderer?

Meanwhile Dr. Christopher Schott, accused in connection with the death of the girl, who was his office assistant, has resumed his medical practice, having been released on bail of $8,000.

Friends of Dr. Schott insist the grand jury hearing must result as the hearing of the coroner's jury which investigated the case resulted.

In the face of direct accusation and with a possible motive for the shooting revealed in a letter of Elizabeth Griffith telling of her former affection for the doctor and of a final break with him, Dr. Schott stood firm on his alibi, supported by Laurene Gardner.

The Gardner child, 13 years old, told jurors she was with Dr. Schott the afternoon of the shooting and that he was not at his office at the time the shooting occurred.

Despite testimony of three witnesses who maintained they saw or spoke to the doctor in or near his office at the time he says he was in another part of the city, the story of the girl was so convincing that the jury was unable to determine who fired the fatal shot.

Dr. Schott's office is crowded with patients since his release on bond. On a filing hook on his desk is a newspaper story of the shooting with pictures of himself, the slain girl and places connected with the crime.

He discusses the case volubly, clinging to his belief that the death of Elizabeth Griffith was a case of suicide.

FAVORS GEORGE'S HOME RULE FOR IRELAND

SUNDERLAND, Eng. — "Premier Lloyd-George's new home rule bill would do more for Ireland than even Gladstone's contemplated," W. S. Churchill, secretary of state for war and air, declared in a speech here Saturday.

Speaking at the meeting in this shipbuilding port, Churchill also pointed out the dangers to civilization from Bolshevism.

"The crazy fanatics of Central Europe are trying to create a Utopia," Churchill said, "not realizing Bolshevism destroys freedom and attempts to establish class government."

ENGLAND HAS BOUGHT MUCH SUGAR IN CUBA

NEW YORK — The Dow Jones financial news agency here Friday announced that England is credited with having bought 40,000 to 50,000 tons of Cuban raw sugar in the past few days. The transaction is one of the largest in the new crop of sugar that has been consumed in some time. It involved about one per cent of the entire estimated Cuban output for 1919-1920.

Most of the sugar is for January loading and the price is about 11 cents f. o. b. Cuba.

NEW'S MENTALITY NOW QUESTION

Life of Accused Is Already Laid Bare.

ALIENISTS SAY HE'S INSANE

Jury Must Decide State of His Mind.

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — Whether Harry S. New had crossed the line between dullness and insanity is the issue on which he will or will not face punishment for the murder of Frieda Lesser, attorneys said Saturday night.

After two weeks of evidence in which New's life was revealed as the story of his birth, the alleged relationship to United States Senator New and the story of Frieda Lesser's death were told, all these points were laid aside for a study of the defendant's mentality.

If New is sane and only dull, the jury can convict him if it feels his guilt is proved, attorneys for the state said. But, if on the night he is charged with having murdered Frieda Lesser, he had lost his intellect and crossed the line from stupidity to insanity then he will face the asylum, they claimed.

"We believe New is insane," John L. Richardson, one of his attorneys said Saturday. "If he is found insane by the jury we propose to cooperate in every way with the district attorney in having him confined in a proper institution."

With the study of New's mentality in progress those in the court room, have received liberal education on psychology, the workings of the mind and criminal subjects.

The defense alienists differed but little in their diagnosis. Three experts described New's case as follows:

Dr. Ross Moore, former major in the army medical corps who passed on the mental fitness of 250,000 soldiers:

"A moron, a high class embecile with the mentality of a boy slightly under the age of 12; a psychopathic personality unable to adjust himself to the ordinary stresses of life; a feeble-minded person, physically and sexually developed, but not mentally; a dangerous person to be at liberty. He was insane when Frieda Lesser was killed."

Dr. E. B. Hoag, University of California lecture and a witness in the Warren Billings preparedness day bomb case in San Francisco:

"A constitutionally inferior person; a psychopathic personality; a paranoiac; afflicted with dementia praecox, a dangerous person to be at liberty; is feeble-minded and insane."

Dr. E. O. Sawyer, Los Angeles specialist:

"A man of low mentality, a brooder who brooded from the time he learned of his alleged unsanctioned birth; a dangerous person to have in the community. His mind stopped developing when he was about ten."

The prosecution is now preparing to present experts to show New is not insane but merely "dull."

HELP INVALIDS TO FORGET FLIGHT

Diverting Occupations Keep Minds and Hands Busy

PLAN MEETS WITH SUCCESS

Claim New Scheme is Valuable Aid to Medicine

NEW YORK — Occupational therapy, the newest branch of work taken up by the National League for Women's Service, is the teaching of useful, diverting occupations to invalids in an attempt to keep their hand and minds busy with materials which make them forget, in a measure, their misfortune.

The success of this effort is shown by the improved condition of scores of invalids in the Home of Invalids, the tuberculosis department of the Vanderbilt Clinic in New York City, and in Philadelphia hospitals where league workers are engaged in the teaching of simple occupations.

Mentally and physically curative, occupational therapy has caused many invalids to recover the use of arms and hands almost wholly paralyzed through the desire to accomplish results with their new work. Gayly colored materials such as those used in bead-making, painting of clay articles and weaving are provided. Simple rug making, basketry and lace making also are taught, while children delight in the making of doll houses and doll furniture.

Physicians and nurses acclaim occupational therapy as a valuable aid to modern medicine. The demand for trained workers in this field is steadily increasing, and the league has established schools for women who wish to obtain instruction in occupational teaching methods.

Despite the handicap of various illnesses the pupils of the league classes have earned pin-money for many months. At one institution there is a former sailor, paralyzed from the waist down, who has made and sold seventy-five netted shopping bags during the Summer and Fall. He has also sold six netted hammocks, has paid for all material, supplied himself with spending money and has saved a comfortable sum of money in a short period of time.

Recently he said: "Why I'm going to get right up and walk out of here some day; I feel so much better and able to do things for myself without calling an attendant." His interest in his work is so great that he refused to be lifted into bed at the regular retiring hour one night, and subsequently found that he could "do for himself."

Surprisingly fine artistry is displayed by women who make crocheted lace. Beautiful patterns with a wealth of intricate detail are exhibited by those who sit all day in wheel chairs, unable to move without help. Belts and bags sold by Fifth Avenue shops at prohibitive prices are made here and sold at a fraction of the cost elsewhere.

For the unfortunate person with the use of one hand only, rattle knitting offers a means of amusement and material gain, and has also been found adaptable to the feeble minded, the old and childish who cannot concentrate on work that requires consistent thought. As those confined to hospitals for a long period gradually lose hold on their mentality, this simple occupation is utilized to good advantage, the league announces.

Mrs. J. Eads Switzer is in charge of occupational work among tubercular patients at the Vanderbilt Clinic in New York. She has been particularly successful with classes in clay modelling, bead work and painting. Attractive bead necklaces and ornaments of a self-hardening clay decorated with water colors and shellacked find a ready market after careful disinfection.

A promising pupil is an old man of eighty-four years. He has a hobby for constructing automobiles and "flying machines" from thin wood. He has made splendid imitations in miniature of National League and Red Cross ambulances and airplanes. He even cuts out of thin wood a dapper little chauffeur, which is skillfully inserted between the steering wheel. An aged woman, also an invalid, makes tiny stretchers of muslin sewed on sticks, to be placed inside the car.

So it is not merely "anything to keep them busy" with the league volunteers. They go into the work thoroughly — not as a pastime. The quality of work produced by Mrs. Switzer's pupils has won high praise — vases and candlesticks of painted clay are purchased as soon as they are finished, while tiny clay plaques painted with fruits and flowers are ordered far in advance.

It is not, however, from a commercial standpoint that the work is most successful. Useful occupation for invalids has proved itself a powerful cure or self-pity and mental depression, which is said to be "half the battle" in illness.

BABY CAUSES EXCITEMENT: BY CLIMBING UP LADDER

BELOIT, Kan.,—Katherine Overman, not yet two years old, was seized by the wanderlust recently and set forth on a trip of adventure. Evidently a desire to see the country from a high perch popped into Katherine's early head, for her mother on becoming alarmed at the little tot's absence and instituting a search discovered her wee daughter clinging to the top round of the ladder leading up the tall windmill on her parent's farm.

Calmly ignoring her mother's appeal that she "hold tight" until her father could be called, Katherine immediately began the descent and soon reached terra firma, much to her well-nigh hysterical mother's relief.

DEMPSEY'S "COUSIN" FREE OF MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

CORK, Ireland.—Martin Dempsey, who claims to be a cousin of Jack Dempsey, the world's heavyweight champion, was acquitted of the charge of manslaughter here. He had killed with one blow a man who had attacked him.

WILL BECOME LAW

WASHINGTON.—The McNary bill, extending the life of the sugar equalization board another year will automatically become a law Thursday night, unless it is signed or vetoed by the president before that time. The president has withheld his signature because of requests of members of the sugar board that they be allowed to file an opinion on it.

FAIR ENDS WITH STOCK PARADE

Session at Columbus Grove Attended by Hundreds.

EXHIBITS ON LARGE SCALE

Stock Breeders See Choice Animals at Meeting.

The closing session of the annual mid-winter fair at Columbus Grove, was held Saturday afternoon, when a parade of all the animals exhibited, was held over the principal streets.

The fair was the means of attracting hundreds of farmers stock breeders and those interested in the higher development of live stock, to the meeting.

The entries this year were larger than ever, covering a wider territory in all directions around Columbus Grove. It was the seventh annual meeting.

Through the state, Columbus Grove is noted for its high class horses, cattle and hogs.

Among the association, aside from individuals, which added to the success of the fair, was the Columbus Grove Short Horn association and the Columbus Grove Poland China Hog Breeders' association.

The Short Horn association was formed last April and consists of breeders in this part of the state. Upton Kinney, Ottawa, is secretary and treasurer. The object was to create interest in the breed, to have farmers that breed pure stock secure better results and induce leading farmers to engage in the work and secure elimination of disease in stock.

Under their supervision, Boys' and Girls' Beef Calf club was organized with 45 members. All the calves were from pure Scotch Short Horn origin, purchased at an average price of $540 a head. Desire to become future breeders was the aim of the club.

The calves were distributed last June. They were exhibited at the mid-winter fair and were the object of every sight-seer. All took liberal prizes. The association will hold a sale of these calves next April.

The calves were purchased in Iowa and Illinois by Edward W. Laibe, Short Horn breeder, Columbus Grove. Among the animals exhibited by Laibe was a show bull with a record as sire of show stock. He was "Imported Newton Loyalty," bred by Alex T. Gordon in Scotland.

The bull made an enviable reputation as a show bull and sire. He is now the chief stock bull in the herd of Scotch cattle owned by Laibe, Columbus Grove. He is a light roan in color and weighs 2,100 pounds. He was champion bull at the Putnam County Fair at Ottawa, in 1919 and was the animal of interest at the mid-winter fair.

Laibe also showed from his herd "Mischief E., the Fifth," a light roan in color, which was purchased in Chicago last year.

Charles Kinney, breeder of fine cattle, has brought the business down to a fine point. "It is just as easy to breed the pure stock as the scrubs," Kinney said. "They all take just so much feed and while caring for them, the yield from the pure breed will be every so much better for the money expended in feed, than from the scrubs.

"Farmers are realizing every year the advantage to be gained from the pure breeds and are re-stocking their farms with such cattle. In this connection, there is no better, all-round breed than the Short Horn, I have found," so Kinney said.

Laibe was solicited to show his cattle at the mid-winter fair in Lima last year but on account of the disagreeable weather and poor transportation facilities, he refused to take the cattle from his farm. He may be induced to show them at the coming mid-winter fair, to be held the middle of January in Lima.

Among the hog breeders which enter exhibits was J. M. Kuhn, secretary of the Poland China Breeders' association, W. H. Eversole, C. W. Eversole, B. F. Reynolds and Sons, John Diller and Henry Diller.

PRISONER SUICIDE RECOVERING

Frank Lafkus, Drug Addict, Fails in Attempt to Take Life.

Reports from City hospital Saturday night indicate that the attempt of Frank Lafkus, alias Howard, convicted drug addict, to commit suicide Friday night was a failure. Lafkus was sent to the institution following his attempt to take his life in the county jail Friday night. He is resting well, reports from the city institution say.

Lafkus, because of failure to satisfy a craving for morphine, tried to end his life in a cell by hanging. He used strips torn from his pillow to tie himself to the roof of his cell.

Following his plea of guilty, to a charge of being a drug addict, in police court, Lafkus was sentenced to the county jail for 90 days.

GOT A LIL' COLD? HERE'S REMEDY

Jones Hands Out Dope on Coughs and Wheezes.

Dress well, not too heavily, drink plenty of water, sleep in a well ventilated room and don't fill your stomach full of patent medicines. That is the gist of the advice handed out today by Dr. A. L. Jones, city health officer, following the discovery that an epidemic of minor colds is sweeping the city.

"We find that the kind of a cold that now prevails here," the doctor said, "is really a family affair. One member of a family gets it and it is transmitted to the others simply because the people do not know how to care for the one case."

"Most people overdress now, and that is largely responsible for their ailments. It is not necessary in this kind of weather to bundle up until you can't move. Dress rationally."

"Avoid drafts and stay away from radiators. Keep your feet dry. Any one of these warnings will help you to avoid a cold."

Especially warning was given by the health officer to parents of infant children between ages of a few months and three years. Children are very susceptible to colds, Dr. Jones declared, and if not cared for immediately by an experienced physician, the cases are liable to develop into pneumonia. He urges that the family physician be called immediately in every such case.

Taft to Appear HERE IN MARCH

Captain Stanley Dancy, interesting world-war soldier and officer, will be the next attraction on January 9. His subject will be "The Relationship of Johnny Bull and Uncle Sam."

Sidney London, the great artist, comes February 11.

THE LIMA DAILY NEWS

Leads as Always in the Amount of Advertising Used by Lima Merchants. All the wise merchants are found in its columns. They buy for results only and this is the way they bought for the month of December:

COMPARISON OF ADVERTISING

	Local	Foreign	Class.	Total
NEWS	45,122	8,807	4,767	58,696
TIMES	38,996	3,100	2,057	44,153
GAZETTE	35,731	2,802	3,812	42,345
News lead over Times	6,126	5,707	2,710	14,543
News lead over Gazette	9,391	6,005	955	16,351

It is not the price you pay but what you get when you have paid, that determines the value of Advertising. If you were mailing circulars the number of stamps you purchased would determine how MANY homes you reached. Why not use the same common sense in buying Newspaper Advertising?

THE DAILY NEWS has made the smallest advance in advertising rates of any paper of its class in Ohio. Its rate today is lower than in such cities as Marion, Portsmouth, Sandusky, Mansfield and Zanesville. Its circulation is larger. PER THOUSAND the advertising bought in The Daily and Sunday News is the LOWEST in Lima and the lowest in the state.

MANY MERCHANTS will not stop to think of WHO SEES their ad, they get a copy and believe everybody else has gotten a copy. In Lima THE DAILY NEWS goes into NINETY PERCENT of all homes; it enters these homes just before supper when the whole family has time to read and study the ads.

EVENING ADVERTISING is almost exclusively used in the larger cities; because the merchants of the larger cities have studied the problem of advertising and know how and where to get results.

IN BUYING SPACE THIS YEAR USE THE SAME JUDGMENT AS IN BUYING MERCHANDISE

THE FURTHER ADVENTURES OF JIMMIE DALE

Love for a Woman Prompts Jimmie Dale, a Rich New York Clubman, to Masquerade in the Underworld as Larry the Bat, as the Gray Seal, and as Smarlinghue, the Poor Artist.

Copyright, 1919, by George M. Doran Company.

"Clancey of Headquarters" burst into the squalid quarters of Smarlinghue, a poor artist, under threat of showing him up to the police, the oppressor of the underworld. Jimmie Dale, a rich New York clubman, masquerading as Larry the Bat, a masquerade in the underworld as the Gray Seal, and as Smarlinghue, the Poor Artist.

The small French window of the new Sanctuary, that gave on the dirty little courtyard which, in turn, paralleled a black and narrow lane, with its high board fence, opened cautiously, noisily. A dark form slipped silently into the room. The window was closed again. The dilapidated roller shade was drawn down.

The dark form, like a shadow, moved across the room to the door, tried the lock, slipped an inner bolt into place, then returned halfway back to the windows, and paused by the wall. A match flame spurted thru the blackness.

A hard smile flickered across his lips. It was a grim transition, this, from the luxury, the wealth and refinement of New York's most exclusive club, which he had left but half an hour ago, to the squalor, the poverty, the ugliness of the underworld.

The dark form, like a shadow, moved across the room to the door, tried the lock, slipped an inner bolt into place, then returned halfway back to the windows, and paused by the wall. A match flame spurted thru the blackness.

Jimmie Dale's hands clenched suddenly. That night, that night, when he had been so nearly caught in the Net, had brought forth forcibly upon him the realization that he could not risk any longer a haphazard course of action. If he was to be of help to her, for next time his own luck might go out. He did not know who remained of the Crime Club, of whom they were; but he knew the Magpie and he knew where the Magpie was to be found—and tonight he would know, settling the question once for all, that the Magpie knew!

He turned, walked back across the room, and a few feet along from the door, knelt down close to the wall. An instant later, with the loose section of the base-board removed, he reached inside, and took out a curious assortment of garments, which he laid on the floor beside him. They were the clothes of Larry the Bat.

It was a dangerous, almost desperate chance; he, too, was desperate now. They had thought Larry the Bat had perished in the Sanctuary fire that night, and that in Larry the Bat had perished the Gray Seal. But the Gray Seal had been at work again since then; and, logically enough, there followed the deduction that, after all, Larry the Bat had in some way escaped.

Jimmie Dale began to remove his expensive flared dress suit. It had made it much easier for him, easier to play the role of Smarlinghue, easier for the Gray Seal to work, that they, the police, the police and underworld, had of late searched only for a character, a character that, in truth, until tonight had literally vanished from the face of the earth.

It was the act of a fool, it was even more the act of a coward, to shrink from it! It was the one way to force the Magpie to lay his cards face up on the table. It was the Magpie who had discovered that Larry the Bat was the Gray Seal; it was the Magpie who had led gangland to batter down the Sanctuary doors; it was the Magpie who had clamored the loudest of all for the Gray Seal's death—and it was the Magpie, therefore, who had reason to fear Larry the Bat as he would fear no other living thing on earth.

Jimmie Dale took out a make-up box from the opening in the wall, and, caving it with him to the table, propped up a small mirror against a collection of Smarlinghue's paint tubes. His fingers were working swiftly now, by lane and alley, by unfrequented streets, now running, now crouched motionless in some dark corner waiting along the pavement before he darted across the street in front of him, Jimmie Dale threaded his way thru the East Side, as thru the twistings and turnings of some maze, puzzling, grotesque and intricate, but with whose secrets notwithstanding he was intimately familiar.

When he paused at last, it was in a backway, which he had entered by the simple expedient of climbing the fence from the lane behind. A low building loomed up before him. Jimmie Dale scarcely glanced at the windows. Poker Joe's at this hour—it must be close to eleven o'clock, he calculated—would be just about settling into its night's swing.

But there was another window up which Jimmie Dale now centered his entire attention. A narrow, oblong window, cellular-like, just on a level with the ground—and here man's trousers; but the ankles and trousers seemed utterly insignificant—on the sole of the right boot was a diamond-shaped, gray-colored paper seal! His own insignia—the insignia of the Gray Seal!

A low cry was on Jimmie Dale's lips. The bed was moved out now, and he was stooping over a man whose head was gruesomely battered above the right temple and back across the skull. The flashlight wavered in his hand, as he held it focused on the other's face. It was the Magpie—dead.

It seemed to Jimmie Dale, that in the darkness, the room was full of unseen devils, laughing and jeering derisively at him. It seemed that reality did not exist; that only unreality prevailed. The Magpie—dead!

Mechanically Jimmie Dale replaced the bed in its original position over the murdered man, and stood staring down again at the gray seal on the Magpie's boot. It was not why the Magpie had been murdered, it was why he had murdered him! Once, long ago, almost at the outset of the Gray Seal's career, a spurious gray seal had been used before. But this was a vastly different and far more significant matter.

He laughed loud and bitterly. Only another crime attributed to the Gray Seal! It would not smirch the Gray Seal any—the Gray Seal had been accused of worse than this! But the man who had dared to place that gray seal there would answer for it. He was still laughing in that low, bitter way, as he knelt now, and took out his pocketknife. The gray seal, at least, would not be found—he was lucky there—he had only to scrape it off, and—No—wait!

"Jimmie!"

It seemed to quiver, low-breathed, thru the darkness—his name. His name! Was he bereft of all his senses? His name! Here in this horrible murder hole! Was he indeed mad with his imaginings, with these voices that had been whispering, and laughing, and jeering at him out of the blackness? And, absurdly, it had seemed this time that it was the Tohe repeated the address he had given in the note over to himself. It was an apartment house on Fifth Avenue, near Washington Square.

POAGE AND SOLLERS

136 N. UNION ST.

It was slow work, hurry as he would, doubling and zigzagging his way up thru the East Side, discouraging, when time was so great a factor, to cover three and four times the actual distance in order to keep to the lanes and alleys whose shelter he dared not leave.

It was close to midnight as Jimmie Dale came out on Washington Square. He crossed to Waverly place, and, on the point of starting along Fifth Avenue, drew suddenly back around the corner. A man, walking rapidly, was just turning into Fifth Avenue from the opposite corner. Jimmie Dale drew in his breath sharply. He had got out of sight just in time. He recognized the quick, springy walk of the other. It was Meighan, of Headquarters.

A short distance behind the other, but on the opposite side of the street, Jimmie Dale followed the detective. There was hardly any use now in going to Kenleigh's. As he approached the apartment house entrance, voices reached him from the vestibule, and then he heard the closing of a door.

"Gone!" he whispered miserably. "Gone!"

But the note! That white thing there upon the floor! He crossed the room, picked it up, tore it open, and, with his flashlight upon it, began to read.

"Jimmie—Jimmie —" It was scrawled in haste, only a few lines. His eyes travelled rapidly over the words, and suddenly his breath came fast.

"My God!" he cried out sharply. As to he could not have read aright, he read again, disjointed words and phrases muttered audibly:

"Afraid not in time . . . hurry . . . this afternoon . . . the Magpie and Virat . . . Kenleigh, insurance broker . . . safe in Kenleigh's house . . . ground floor—left . . . one hundred thousand dollars . . . bonds . . . quarters . . . half-past one at Virat's . . . Gray Seal . . . Larry the Bat . . . if dangerous, keep away . . ."

One glance around the room Jimmie gave instinctively; and then he was crawling thru the window, and outside, regaining his feet, he darted across the yard, and out into the lane. Kenleigh, the insurance broker

"Ground floor—left," murmured Larry the Bat to himself. He sniled facetiously. "Saves an interview with the janitor!"

Jimmie Dale pushed the door further open, slipped thru, and left the door ajar behind him. He was in the hallway of a very small apartment, of not more than two or three rooms, he judged. Diagonally ahead of him a light streamed out from an open door. He stole toward this, and, pressed close against the jamb of the door, peered in.

In the far corner of the room, Meighan, the detective, knelt upon the floor amidst a scene of grotesque disorder. The door of a very small safe had been "sounded," and now sagged open. Books and papers littered the floor, and were strewn over a mattress that, evidently dragged from the inner room, had been swaddled around the safe to deaden the sound of the explosion.

"You don't understand!" Kenleigh burst out, with a groan. "This means absolute ruin to me! A hundred thousand dollars in bonds—payable to the bearer—and—God help me, the greatest mine!"

"Don't get excited!" advised Meighan coolly. "Sure, I know! That is, it's a toss-up between one of two, and that's easy. We'll round 'em both up before morning, and then I guess it won't be much of a trick to pick the trouble. They won't be looking for 'em, all right. It's a toss-up between Mug Garrety and the Magpie."

Kenleigh was staring incredulously at the detective.

"How do you know?" he gasped out. "I—don't!"

"I dare say you don't," Meighan was chuckling now. "It's like this, Mr. Kenleigh. A crook's like any one else, like an artist, say—you get to know 'em, get to spot 'em, especially safe workers, from certain peculiarities about their work. Here, for instance, the way he—"

Meighan stopped suddenly. He had been pulling the mattress away from the front of the safe, and now, with a sharp exultant exclamation, he stooped quickly and picked up a small object from the floor. He held it out, twirling it between thumb and forefinger, for Kenleigh's inspection—a flashy scutpin, heretofore-stamped, of blantly imitation diamonds.

Kenleigh shook his head bewilderingly.

Why 50,000 Dealers Sell Goodrich Tires

"The other day I signed up your, or should I say 'our' 1920 agreement, and it occurred to me that you would be interested in my reason for arranging to handle Goodrich on a much larger scale than last year.

It is this: When I opened my store out here, after considering several makes of tires, I decided to take on Goodrich, and the salesman assured me that you would co-operate to help me build up a business that I could be proud of.

Not only have you made good the promise of your salesman, but the fairness and cleanness of your transactions with me have far exceeded any, I thought would be possible from any tire Company.

I was recently asked why I handled Goodrich tires practically to the exclusion of all others, and my answer was:

"Because I have not had a Goodrich tire come back, and because I believe they are the best proposition on the market today."

Very sincerely yours,

3083 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

John E. Dennis."

IT IS THIS FAITH in Goodrich Tires, Goodrich methods, and Goodrich help, that has caused more than 50,000 dealers to feature Goodrich Tires.

John E. Dennis says, "I have not had a Goodrich Tire come back."

If a tire had come back, he knew from Goodrich's clear statement of certified service that his customer had full protection in the Definite Adjustment Basis—6000 miles for Fabric Tires and 8000 miles for Silvertown Cords.

The nation-wide demand for Goodrich Tires is proof positive of the soundness and fairness of the Goodrich merchandising policy.

But more important, the economic right of this policy, and the outspoken, open-handed declaration of it, have put the purchase of a tire on a firmer foundation for dealer and user.

Furs and Mystery

An Educational Advertisement By Blum's.

The musk ox is another of the fur-bearing animals rapidly going the way of the American bison because its haunts are the secluded rocky districts of the far North is the only reason it is not more nearly extinct. As it is only small herds of about twenty animals are to be seen now.

But few of these skins are collected annually and those reaching the fur markets find ready sale.

The musk ox is a heavily built animal, about three feet in height and having large, peculiar shaped horns. The color of the male is a dark brown, while that of the female is so much darker as to be almost black. The entire body is covered with long hair, the under fur being soft and gray in color. When made up it makes a very attractive garment.

The wild cat is another American fur-bearing which is steadily decreasing in numbers because of the activities of hunters and trappers who wish to exterminate the animal as well as secure its pelt.

In form and color the wild cat closely resembles the Canadian Lynx. After being dyed it makes an excellent imitation of lynx, in its natural state its color is a greyish hue with dark brown or black spots on its back, sides and limbs, with an irregular dark line here and there.

Handsome as it is, the fur of the wild cat is rarely used in the making of ladies' fur apparel and it is not likely to become very popular for any use except the making of small robes and rugs.

Unless protective measures are taken soon however, these animals and others of more general use will become entirely extinct in a few years. The better skins are so scarce even now that unless you choose your furrier with the utmost caution, you are likely to find you have paid a genuine price for an imitation fur.

Beware of the Wolf in Sheep's Clothing.

LONDON CHILLY TO DAN CUPID

Lack of Benches Forces Lovers
To Spoon Standing Up

COUPLES DECORATE CORNERS

Scorn Halls With Abundance of Comforts

LONDON — What is the most pathetic sight in London?

I observe it every evening as I go home to dinner. And if I fare forth after dinner to a theatre I see the pathetic sight again. Through my taxicab window, when I return from the theatre, I catch a fleeting glimpse once more of that pathetic sight.

London lovers.

Everywhere — at area gates in the gloomy side streets, or loitering by the prison-like railings which surround the gardens in the squares — there are couples courting.

They stand silently, these pairs. Their silence is extraordinary. Hour after hour they exchange not a word.

They are too happy to talk. They are unconscious of the passers-by, unconscious of the fog, even of the rain.

Their enchantment is enviable. But what a civilization is this which allows such cruel — well, uncomfortable — courtships! Do these poor, blissful youngsters really prefer to stand, wearisomely, in doorways and under dripping trees whose branches hang over backyard walls? Of course they don't. They have no spacious homes in which the courtship may progress befittingly, as is the case with the rich middle and upper classes. There is more privacy in the street than under the family roof.

To be sure there may be no family roof. The girl is probably "living in" above a shop; the young man rents only a bedroom in lodgings — and, as likely as not, shares this with another young man friend.

What is to be done for these boys and girls — the future citizens of the Empire?

Useless to suggest that halls should be opened where light and warmth would accompany suitable supervision! Let us be candid about this. London lovers don't respond to these well-meant attempts — they have several times been made — to furnish them with a kind of charitable, spuriously cheery social centre. Given that there is no home parlor in which they can sit, they vote for the freedom of the open street. A strange taste, the "philanthropic worker" may consider it; but there it is!

What is veritably inhuman, however, is that in our streets and squares there are no seats. The lovers have nowhere to sit down and rest. Hour after hour they must stand or trudge. Is it conceivable that the well-to-do can realize how few public seats exist in London? You may walk for miles and miles and not find one single bench on which to relax your fatigued limbs.

And I could take you to a spot where there is one bench just large enough to accommodate six persons, and every night on that bench you will behold — dumbly seated, three pairs of lovers. In the shadows all around you will decry other pairs of lovers, patiently standing, holding each other's hands. If one pair of the lover's move from that bench their vacated place is instantly taken by another pair.

These young people, be it understood, are behaving exactly as lovers in a wealthier class behave. Their conduct is, as a rule, irreproachable. To dismiss the whole business as mere "spooning" is both vulgar and short-sighted. All lovers "spoon" and have a right to "spoon." Bluntly, these "spoonings" should be encouraged, not looked askance at. Their discomforts, their publicity, are the outcome of social conditions, for which, at the moment — especially in the light of the house shortage — it seems hopeless to find a speedy cure.

AGED COUPLE DEAD IN HOME, VICTIMS OF COLD

WEYMOUTH, Mass. — Henry and Louise G. Nutting, aged respectively eighty-seven and eighty-two years, were found dead in their home, victims of cold and privation.

These two lifelong companions who during a long and fruitful married life had faced together the happiness and sadness of life, had accepted proudly and without flinching the tragic hardships that marked their end, and died together without any appeal to the outer world for aid. Altho a married daughter, Mrs. Ageline Humphries, lived as near as Braintree, the aged parents refrained from making known their need, even to one so near and dear.

With practically no food in the house and no fuel, the cause of the death was only too apparent. The old people even had but scanty clothing. The woman was found sitting in a rocking chair, wrapped in a comforter. Her husband lay on the floor, one arm outstretched in the direction of the door, as tho the end had come while he was endeavoring to summon aid.

CZECHO SLOVAKIA PROSPEROUS

Government Bucks Any Attempt At Profiteering

LONDON — Czechoslovakia, which has just entered upon the second year of its independence, has, unlike the other nationalities from Austro-Hungarian bondage, made remarkable progress, both politically and economically, since its liberation, as the following brief review shows.

The harvest has been exceptionally good, the yield of wheat per acre (2½ acres) being 24 cwt., as against 17 cwt. last year, and barley 34 cwt., as against 12 cwt. last year. The same improvement has taken place with flint, potatoes, beetroot, hops, wine and fruit.

As regards industries, 75 per cent of the industries which belonged to the former Austro-Hungarian monarchy are now carried on within the territories of the Czechoslovak Republic. These are now being restored to their normal conditions, altho a few glass works and textile manufacturers are at a standstill owing to lack of raw material.

The exports of the Czechoslovak Republic consist chiefly of glass, tiles and machinery, beer and sugar. Prices which steadily rose during the war are now being controlled, as the government has organized an energetic campaign against profiteering.

The good beetroot harvest has placed the Czechoslovak Republic in a position to export large quantities of sugar. Hops and timber will also be available for export on a large scale.

The present coal output is satisfactory, and, according to Mr. Hoover's recent report, amounts to 78 per cent of the production in 1913. Moreover, since the armistice there has not been a single strike among the Czech miners, who fully realize how important their work is to the well-being of the Republic.

The only two really serious drawbacks to the development of active trade are those of finance and transport. As a result of Austrian mismanagement, the circulation of paper money is seven times what it was before the war.

The currency in Poland, Austria and Serbia has depreciated to a far greater extent, and has had a considerable effect upon that of Czechoslovakia, whose export trade is chiefly directed to the Near East.

In matters of transport, the railways are rapidly improving, the state having furnished more than 100,000,000 kronen ($20,850,000) for their development. As a result, the services are better than those in Poland, Rumania or Serbia.

Water transport on the Elbe to Hamburg has been started, and similar communications on the Danube with Serbia and Rumania will be established as soon as affairs in Hungary are more favorable. The financial situation has also been improved by withdrawing banknotes from circulation.

Popular opinion on the subject of Teschen has become reconciled to the idea of a plebiscite, altho every political party insists that the Teschen district is an economic necessity for Czechoslovakia.

LIMA IS OFFERED BERTH IN PROPOSED 1920 DIAMOND CIRCUIT

PLANNING FOR COMING BASEBALL YEAR—COL UMBUS OFFICIALS AFTER BERNIE HOLLORAN TO ENTER LIMA IN SIX-CLUB LEAGUE

By JOE SCHERRER

The thermometers hover near the zero mark and baseball paraphernalia lies dust-covered and stained in attics our thoughts carry us to the coming diamond season in Lima.

What the coming year of the national sport here holds in store for fans—what teams will be in action here and what the status of the diamond game will be are the most important questions to the baseball bug even at this early date.

To say that the ball year will be successful seems to be a rather bold statement.

Yet in our opinion and the opinion of many baseball fans and backers of this city the ball and bat game here will be a rousing success.

This conclusion is reached when we search the inner information and discover that already movements are being made to firmly plant the national game here.

First among the contemplated activities of the 1920 season to be uncovered is the proposition which has been made to Bernie Holloran, manager of the 1919 Lima Independents.

The proposition made to Bernie offers to include Lima in a six-club league now being formed by baseball men of Columbus, Dayton, Springfield and Zanesville.

Far from the "pipe-dream" variety is the suggestion of forming the new league, as semi-pro men of Columbus are already back of the suggestion with a push and in a letter to the local manager, Cagis's evidence of pushing the project across.

ANXIOUS TO GET LIMA IN NEW LEAGUE

Harry S. Baker, one of the semi-pro leaders of Columbus, Ohio, is the man now backing Lima for a berth in the circuit.

Writing to Holloran, Baker says: "A league is being organized to comprise Columbus, Dayton, Zanesville, Springfield, and perhaps Marion, with the sixth city to be either Lancaster, Newark, Lima or Washington C. H. We would like to get your city into the circuit and would appreciate an early reply."

Further in the letter Baker says the men behind the league are in hopes of getting an early start and that they hope to get the preliminary work of forming the league finished early in January.

Looks like this bunch means business—eh, what?

"They surely do and we hope that something may be done to get Lima in the league," says Holloran.

The communication from Baker causes the baseball brain of Holloran to start a stirring and out of the whirl of thoughts Bernie gives vent to some dope regarding a team which would be possible to gather together here.

Nothing certain can be secured from the manager of last year's crack team but just the same we opine that Bernie has a couple of tricks up his sleeve which will be pulled at the start of the season should his club be represented in the proposed league or not.

Costello, Wentz, Malloy, Sykes, Burns, Flannery, Harrison, Reynolds, Egan, Spigitz, Bonowitz, Carroll, Pierce and Davis.

LOOK GOOD TO SEE OLD GANG IN ACTION, EH?

A likely looking bunch of names and bits of nomenclature which recall the stirring diamond clashes of the 1919 season.

They cannot all be back here in the coming season—that's sure—but yet it is our little opinion that Holloran will have some of the above wearing the Lima hose when the 1919 "play ball" call is heard for the first time.

Earl Sykes, premier first sacker, who covered the initial bag in seven games at Murphy street park, in a letter to the manager of last year's team, says he has landed a good job at the Dayton Maxwell company at the Gem City. Which will eventually mean that Sykes will say goodbye to the minors. Earl has not been secured to play here but Bernie stands as much chance as the next pilot of landing him.

Joe Egan, the idol of the local fans last year, from present indications, will be playing ball in the political league next summer. Joe, thru the pleadings of his friends, has thrown his hat in the ring for the position of sheriff at Urbana, his home town, and if successful, will stop stealing bases and picking up grounders and go after thefts and pickups in other lines.

Now it would be a pleasing sensation for the bugs to witness a majority of the old gang enroute on the local diamond again this summer. Holloran does not say whether he will or not.

Yet Bernie says: "I cannot make much of a prediction as to the baseball team of next year but I will say that movements will be started in the next few weeks to insure Sunday baseball for Lima fans. There is a possibility of us getting into that new league now being formed and if we do it will mean some good ball games here."

WHY NOT GET BREIM-BUTLER TOGETHER AGAIN

Revealing "facts" of the future seems to be the great indoor pastime around these parts at this time.

In line with this sport we venture to make a little prediction in the sporting line.

Not much of a plunge into the future, in truth, just a wee bit of a statement of something which has not happened but which will happen if given a chance.

Getting from the stage of recedes to plain every-day facts, we forecast that should a promoter get it into his noodle to rematch Babe Breim and Earl Butler, he will draw one of the biggest houses ever gathered around these parts.

"Pretty bum fortune teller," fans will say. "Anyone can tell that."

And the fans are correct in their denunciation of our supernatural ability, as from all appearances not one of the more than 500 fans who witnessed the first tussle of the two boys is of a different opinion than that a return fight would be the greatest event.

On all sides the fans are heard talking of the 10-round fracas which ended in a draw.

The bugs are anxious for another match and would turn out in large numbers for a second meeting of the two boys.

Fans would like to know whether the boys are willing to mix it again. As for Breim this lad says he will go in the ring with Butler whenever the bout is arranged for. Babe says Butler is a hard boy, we had a good fight and I would like to meet him again. I believe that I could win.

Butler has not been heard from but from all indications he would be willing to mix it with Breim if a second meeting could be arranged. The fans want the bout, boxers, from indications, are willing, it's now up to the promoters to get busy.

CENTRAL ALUMNI HAD CLEAN BUNCH OF MEN

A basketball team is as it has been taught.

Often time has this statement been uttered in connection with the court game and in most instances the saying is found to be true.

Especially in the case of the Central Alumni team do we find the saying exemplified in the truest fashion.

The Central Alumni players, members of the championship team of two years ago, were taught clean—and they have played clean ever since. Coach Thorn is the man responsible for instilling this fair play into the boys.

A squarer bunch of men than Abrams, Young, Williams, Chew, Thomas and Sakemiller have yet to enter a local basketball court.

In their three games in this city with the two high school teams and the Y. C. A. team not one of the Alumni men was guilty of unnecessary roughness or "dirty" playing of any kind.

The boys played the game clean and for such action have earned the respect of the sporting public of this city and of the teams which they played.

Each of the above is now in the college cage sport and will make good without a doubt.

ADA SEEMS TO HAVE JINX ON SOUTH HIGH

Ada High's basketball team must hold some Indian sign over the South High quintet.

Twice this season has the local school met the nearby bunch on the basketball floor and each time Ada has nosed out with a win.

South in the two games did not appear to have a weaker team than Ada but merely seemed to overcome by some strange sensation which rendered them unable to pile up the points when opportunity presented itself.

In the second game between the two at the South gym Friday night the locals took the lead in the first half were on the road to reversing the tables on Ada.

The final half, however, saw the story different and Ada was in a short time leading in the scoring with the result that South dropped her second game to the Adaltes.

South has not won a game during the regular season.

She seems to have a fair team, a good coach in Hendershott and a bunch of willing workers.

Local basketball fans are expecting to see that combination pull together shortly and turn in some wius Hard games remain on the South schedule and she will have to show better form in remaining games than in previous if she is to improve her "rep."

NEW COMMISSION WILL MEET SOON

Who Mayor Frank Burkhardt will name as the final two members of the boxing commission has not yet been announced.

The mayor has not yet stated when he will appoint the other men.

Members of the commission will meet shortly and elect officers and arrange rules to govern the fight game here during their reign.

FRED MITCHELL AND FIVE OF HIS MEN WHO CLAIM 1919 NATIONAL LEAGUE RAG

Mitchell of the Cubs is the first of the big league managers to predict that his club is to finish in front. Here are some of the players on whom he bases this prediction. Alexander and Vaughn were the league's leading pitchers while Hollocher was the star backstop. Herzog and Robertson were added late in the season and should improve a great deal this year.

O'DOWD WILL MEET CARPENTIER-CLAIMS

NEW YORK—Mike O'Dowd, middleweight champion, has signed an agreement with a syndicate to meet Georges Carpentier, challenger for the world's heavyweight crown, according to Paddy Mullins, his manager.

According to the report, a purse of $200,000 with the winning end 60 percent, is to be offered for the fight if Carpentier agrees to fight the Yank soldier.

O'Dowd claims the Frenchman ran out of a match with him in France before he returned from the army.

PIN LOOP AT LIMA CLUB

The bowling game has been the sport of hundreds of members of the Lima club within the past month. So hot has been the enthusiasm that a number of the pin men have formed into a bowling league which is now in session for the championship of the club.

Teams have been named after their respective captains. Bagley's team is now at the head of the procession but is closely followed by Thompson's, Ritzler's and Snyder's teams.

The standing of the league is:

Barly	Won	Lost	Pct.
Thompson	12	6	.667
Ritzler	11	7	.611
Snyder	11	7	.611
Johnson	10	8	.555

Word from Connie Mack's Athletics is that his men will finish in the league this season. Some money is being layed that he will finish not worse than eighth.

BOWDLE TOPS CLUB BOYS

When C. A. Bowdle, of the Lima club, smashed the pins for a 240 count several weeks ago he hung up a high score which still tops all made in regular games on those alleys this season.

Bowdle is closely followed for the top score by H. Lindsmith, who ranks second with a score of 234. Other high scores, which are passed the two hundred mark are: George Bayly, 228 and Ben Thomas 213.

LOCALS WIN SPURS IN ATHLETICS

By Berny

Scores of Lima athletes who gained fame as representatives of the Red and Green of the local high school, before it was split into two institutions, who have gone into the collegiate world, are adding to their reputations by gaining new laurels for themselves.

An unusually large number of local lads who have bid for pdaees on college and university first year and varsity teams, not only won letters, but were hailed as the stars of the teams on which they played.

Roy Sakemiller, sensational toe artist and former captain of the Lima High football eleven, and expert stationary guard on the court team, ran away with a berth on the varsity football eleven at Grove City college, Pennsylvania, during his first year at that institution. Sakemiller's toe work helped complete a successful year for the school.

In the five man game, Sakemiller is filling his old position of guard for his college, on their varsity squad. Just a week ago, the lad was instrumental in making Yale how before the little quaker institution. Sakemiller was mentioned by sporting editors in the east as one of the best guards who has thus far been seen in action there.

Kenyon college at Gambler claims a veritable quintet hailing from Lima with Williams, Thomas and Galberach filling three varsity positions. All of these lads have played with the local high school.

Williams, an expert forward, like Thomas, is a product of former Coach Bob Thorn's methods. These two lads are working like machinery at the basket shooting position, while Galberach, the third Limaite is playing a guard.

ADVISES JACK LAY OFF THEATRES

lard over.

"If only fighters would learn that that a life of ease is the worst thing in the world for them; if only they would come to realize that it is far better for them to continue fighting regularly, they would hold their title longer and reap greater rewards than have ever been recorded."

Jeffries said Dempsey is making a grand mistake taking theatrical tours and dipping into the movies.

He advises the conqueror of Jess Willard to busy himself with ring engagements regardless of the amount of money he gathers, because "he may find it difficult to again reach the form that he was in at Toledo last July when he took over the 'cruel' heavyweight crown."

"I have been following Dempsey closely," said the former champ. "He is a wonderful fighting machine, and with ordinary luck he will rule the heavyweight roost for several years. But Jack is making a great big mistake. He is making the blunder all tistic champions make. He has won the championship and now he is taking things easy and enjoys his popularity, while his muscular system is losing that grand condition it was in when he bowled Wil-

CENTRE COLLEGE FOOTBALLERS AT NEW YORK

Once more we will have to center our comment upon Centre college.

The little Kentuckians, the greatest sensation of the 1919 football season, will break into Broadway next season.

No, not in the footlights. In football. The Centre team has completed arrangements for a game with the New York Aggies and will travel to New York on November 30. The game will, in all probability, be played at Ebbets Field.

In securing the New York game Centre college has added another to its list of accomplishments as the result of the 1919 season. The not a wonderful aggregation the Aggies have a fair club and should give Centre a little argument.

Chet Churchill who for two years, captained a Lima High gridiron aggregation, is possibly the only man remaining on the Ohio State squad who is capable of filling the position of center for that school. Holtkamp, who filled the position during the season leaves school this year. Coach Wilce has looked upon the Lima lad favorably, as the star's successor.

Bob Young and Bill Chew, two basketball guards who helped Lima High school win the Northwestern championship of Ohio in 1918 are now playing on the Ohio Wesleyan freshman squad at Delaware. Both are showing up well.

Wesleyan claims another Limaite in Holly Thomas. Thomas returned to his university early this vacation, to report for varsity basketball practice. Thomas plays at guard.

Johnny Johnson and Mark Fuller, both of whom are football stars are bidding for positions on the Buckeye eleven for next year. Fuller held the captaincy of the baseball team last year.

Shifty Bolen, the man who made his reputation playing an end for Ohio State's champion football team, two years ago, and former captain of the O. S. U. basketball team, is also a Lima product. Bolen is at Ada developing the warriors of that institution among whom are numbered Al Bernstein, Lima grid star, Red Churchill, also of Lima is assisting Bolen on the coaching staff at Ada.

Capping it all, Johnny Creps, the versatile little noise maker who kept Lima High teams assured of support by their school mates only a few years ago, is now holding down the position of varsity cheer leader of the Buckeye institution.

IN WHICH GOLF IS DESCRIBED

Golf is like war and politics—a hot place with a fiery short name.

Golf is the king of outdoor sports. Skill at it is something that a rich man cannot buy.

A good golfer in this life ought to be rewarded with a right of way on the blue grass fields of the new Jerusalem.

Golf will take the conceit out of a man quicker than any other game in the world.

NO INCREASE FOR RUTH

"The Red Sox players signed for more than one year will have to live up to their contracts," declares Manager Ed Barrow.

"Ruth and every one of the Red Sox signed for three years will abide by the terms of their contracts or else watch baseball games," the manager continued.

"If the club submitted to Ruth every time he balked, the morale of the players would be endangered and eventually result in the Sox having a one-man team. Ruth and his teammates who are signed for three years were perfectly satisfied when they were offered three-year contracts before the opening of the 1919 season. All of them had their choice of one-year or three-year contracts and not one of the three-year documents was passed up. These players are Ruth, who is getting $10,000 a season; Scott, Melillo, Schanz, Bush and Sam Jones. Mays also was signed for three years.

"I don't believe that Owner Frazee will have any trouble with the players. Neither Frazee nor I have heard from Ruth regarding the 1920 season, and the stories about him being a hold-up may not be true. I would not be surprised, however, if Ruth did ask for more money. He is being badly advised by a friend which is in California with him but the advice is not going to get him anything.

"I realize that Ruth is a great ball player and a wonderful attraction. He likes to play the game and cannot afford to keep out of it even for one season. A season's layoff may ruin him; if Ruth is a man of his word, he will have to play for the figures on his contract, which I think are perfectly fair."

NEED BIGGER HALL CLAIM FIGHT FANS

Opinion among the local boxing fans here is that within a short time mitt programs will be staged every two weeks.

The game will be popular in 1920 should even bouts be put on the fans say, but should opponents be unconvincingly matched there will be a different story to tell.

A number of boxing fans maintain that Hawley Hall is not sufficiently large to handle the crowds, which would turn out for the bouts. The hall has handled easily the crowds of last year, fans are of the opinion that a larger seating capacity this year would mean a bigger crowd.

GOOD SKATING HERE

Ice skating has been fine at McCullough's lake the past few days. They all have been whizzing over the ice in merry fashion and all hope that the present cold spell will continue and that the good skating will also continue.

STOCKHOLDERS MEETING Notice is hereby given that there will be an annual meeting of the stockholders of the American Bank, Lima, Ohio, at its office, January 14, at 3 p. m., for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may properly be held at said meeting.

SET FOR SCRAP

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK — Baseball's next fight has been set over a few days. By a postponement just announced, Garry Herrmann will defend his title as national commission chairman in a battle to a decision next Thursday in Cincinnati.

By a provision of the statutes the covers should have been laid for the "free-for-all" Monday. But John Heydler said he couldn't be there and the other pair graciously acquiesced to a short postponement that would not get the defender out of condition.

The National League proxy said he had some urgent personal business that would prevent him from entering the ring Monday. But there are some who believe it was "cooked up."

Had the meeting been held Monday something like this might have transpired.

ADVANCE DOPE

Heydler: "Now that we are to elect a chairman, I ask you, Mr. Herrmann, on behalf of seven National League owners, to carry out your promise to refuse to be a candidate."

Herrmann: "Tis very well, Mr. Heydler, but I said I would resign in 30 days. It is not 30 days yet. If I am forced to be a candidate before the expiration of that time, I am freed from the promise."

Ban Johnson: "Proceed with the election. For the good of the game, for the integrity of baseball, for the honor that is due him, I nominate Mr. Herrmann for re-election."

And Garry wins even on a dead lock.

But — when they get together Thursday, Heydler can say:

"Your 30 days are up. I will be pleased to look over your resignation, Mr. Herrmann."

GOING DEEPER

With his 30 days of grace narrowing down almost to hours, Herrmann is skidding toward the proverbial deep blue sea. He knows that the antagonistic atmosphere against him that hung over the National League meeting in December has not been chased away by the good cheer of the holiday season. He knows that the National League magnates want a neutral power in the chair. But he also knows that his old pal, Ban Johnson needs him there.

And if it is a call between "love and duty" Garry probably will turn his listening ear in the direction of love and stick with Ban for at least another year.

KEEP MOVING HIS MOTTO

George Gibson, new manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates for the 1920 season, is going to make a lot of changes in the style of play that Dreyfuss' machine has been following for the past few years, and one of the first to receive his consideration will be that of base stealing.

Gibson says the Pirates have the fastest outfield in the major leagues and that he intends to arrange his batting order to enable these fleet-footed individuals to accomplish even more than they did in 1919, when the Pirates led the National League in the stolen base column.

With such speed Gibson believes the Pirates should score more runs than the ordinary club. He says Max Carey is the greatest base stealer in the business, not even Bunting, Ty Cobb, while Whitted, Southworth, Bigbee and Nicholson are all speed merchants of the pronounced type. "All these need is a system that will enable them to use their great speed at the psychological time, and I am going to work on that proposition as soon as we hit training camp," said the new manager.

Gibson is one of the baseball men who believe base stealing has been sadly neglected in recent years. He says managers have not placed enough importance in the art of pilfering bases, with the result that only a few players have made reputations for themselves in this department.

TRIANGLES IN LONG TRIP

A three-day basketball trip, during which a trio of the best teams in Indiana will be met, will be taken by the Y. M. C. A. five, beginning January 15, according to announcement of Physical Director Fyle Saturday night.

The famous Em Ross five will be met as the feature game of the trip.

For the past decade of years the Em Ross team has gained a reputation as one of the classiest in the country and in meeting such high-grade competition the local club will be put to a severe test.

Tho not over-confident of a win the Triangle bunch hopes to hold the crack Indiana team to a low score.

NOTICE The Annual Stockholders meeting of The Lilly White Oil Company will be held at the office of the Company, 12 T. & I. R.R., and Bellefontaine Avenue, Lima, Ohio, on January 15, 1920, at 2 P. M. for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may properly be held at said meeting.

U. S. GREATEST OPPONENT

Frenchman Eliminates Great Britain in Trade Race

PARIS.—America and not Great Britain is considered by France the greatest contestant for the market of the world. Coincidentally France, by organizing a huge syndicate of all her shipping companies and by speeding up the construction of vessels, destined to fly the French flag, which are on the ways or have been ordered in French, English and Scottish shipyards, is making a desperate effort to head off the commercial ruin which stares her in the face if she cannot replace the tonnage lost during the war.

"America is to be reckoned with now not only in her legitimate markets—that is to say, markets for goods which she herself produces—but in the whole field of international trading," was the assertion made by Dr. A. Legendre, a prominent French publicist. "Ships flying the United States flag are transporting wolfram, silk, jute, textiles and Shantung cotton from China seas, not only to her own Pacific ports but to ports of the entire civilized world."

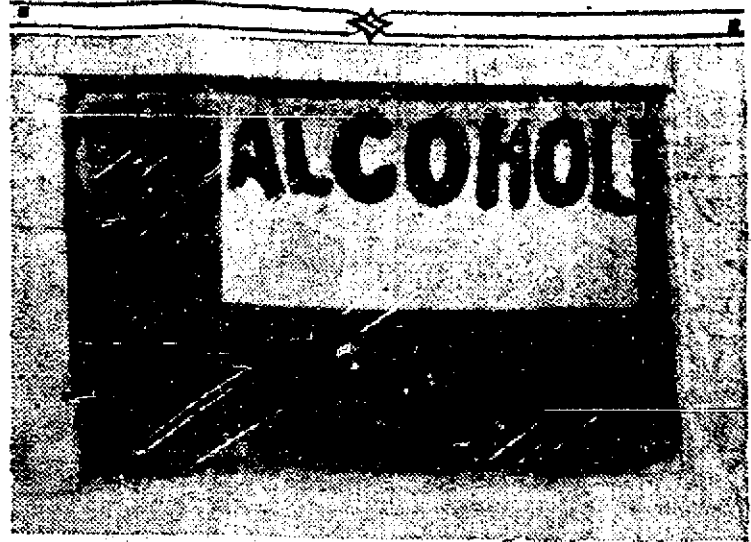

"Great Britain has the chagrin of seeing goods landed on her shores by American ships which were consigned by British firms in British ports, and today American vessels constitute nearly a majority of four own French ports."

"Ports which never new what the Stars and Stripes looked like before the war now are supplied with their wants chiefly by American ships. In all quarters of the globe, the American merchant marine is encroaching on the trade markets which belonged before the war exclusively to the countries of the old world."

The Transit Maritime is the name of the French Government syndicate which will operate nearly all the German ships awarded to France and which will co-ordinate between the different shipping companies of France, forming thus in reality a giant syndicate which by strenuous efforts will endeavor to compete successfully in foreign markets with America.

But the Transit Maritime is up against the tremendous obstacle of not having enough material nor sufficiently numerous shipyards with and in which to construct her new merchant fleet. She must buy abroad. And England, the country to which she naturally turned, has so far been deaf to her pleading.

ALCOHOL SIGNS IMPERIL IGNORANT, YET ARE NOT IN VIOLATION OF LAW

Signs that have led some ignorant men to their death.

Many of the deaths that have been caused lately thruout the country by the drinking of wood or denatured alcohol may be traced to signs like these. Many ignorant men do not know that the alcohol which is used in automobile radiators, etc., to prevent freezing is deadly poison. Attracted by signs like the above they buy the poison stuff and die or go blind after taking a few swallows.

Police are urging dealers who have wood or denatured alcohol for sale to take every means to warn purchasers of the fact that drinking any alcohol that can be bought under the law may result in either serious illness, blindness or death.

France sees no hope of a resuscitation of her merchant marines to any large extent for years—years during which America will have attained the same position in the merchant trade of the world.

SPANISH VETS TO RAP ALIENS

Columbus Meeting Will Ask Congress for Deportation Laws.

COLUMBUS.—Ohio division, Sons of Veterans, will hold a special meeting here January 15 for the purpose of inaugurating a campaign for organization of new camps and general upbuilding of the order.

Plans will be made at this meeting for a combined membership campaign and final round-up of eligibles during the week of February 12 to be known as "Sons of Veterans week."

J. P. Shriever, division commander, Lancaster, Friday issued a general order for the attendance of all officers, past division commanders and delegates at the last encampment.

One of the important phases of the meeting, it was said Friday, will be the urging upon congress to provide laws for the deportation of all "unregenerate aliens and those who do not in good faith seek to become citizens."

WILL BE BURIED IN CHINA CINCINNATI.—Henry Lee, Chinese laundryman, first Chinese patient to die at the General Hospital here, requested burial in China. Loy Sing, Lee's friend, has promised to carry out his request.

"LIGHT-HEARTED" BURGLARS ROB SAFE OF $60,000

OMAHA, Neb.—The safe of the Hayden Brothers' store, one of the largest retail houses here, was blown up by burglars a few nights ago after robbers overpowered the store's two nightwatchmen, whom they bound and gagged. The haul is estimated at approximately $60,000 in cash, securities and other valuables.

After cleaning out the safe the short $50,000.

Routine Again Resumed By Society

Gay Holiday Season Now History and Guests are Returning to Homes and Schools—Many Weddings are on Calendar

HAVING enjoyed the Christmas and New Year holidays to the greatest extent, the young people are now eager to resume their studies at the universities and colleges, and the older set will take up their regular club routine. There were plenty of parties at the close of the old year and beginning of the new.

The feeling that Christmas is a "family" day rather permeated the atmosphere that week, but with the advent of the new year one turned more generally to think of friends and a desire to visit them.

Characteristic as it has been by the joys of the holidays, anticipation and realization, the past week has been notable for the announcement of several betrothals, with the principals in each engagement well known to Lima society.

The announcement of the engagement to Miss Aleene Hoover, younger daughter of Mr and Mrs. W. F. Hoover, of west Market street, to Val Kohl, was made known with a delightful bridge-ten on Wednesday afternoon. The affair was given honoring two out of town guests, Miss Emil Levy, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Vernon Fisher, of Postoria, sister of the bride-elect.

Mrs. W. E. Rheinbold, of south West street, entertained at her home on Tuesday with a luncheon at which time the announcement of the engagement of Miss Catherine Orchard, daughter of J. E. Orchard, of west Market street, to Ralph Kemmer, son of C. G. Kemmer, of west North street, was made. The wedding will take place in the near future.

The wedding of Miss Mary Stolzenbach, daughter of Mr and Mrs. C. F. Stolzenbach, to Walter Hilgard Burns, of New York, son of Mrs. Mary Burns, of Chicago, will occur on Saturday at 6:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents.

This will be a pretty yet quiet affair with only the immediate families and a few intimate friends witnessing the ceremony, to be read by Rev. John Keehey, pastor of the St. Paul Lutheran church. Miss Madeline Stolzenbach, sister of the bride elect and George W. Yeoman of New York, will sing and Mrs. Joe Davison is to preside at the piano playing the wedding march.

Immediately following the ceremony a dinner will be served at the Lima Club.

Miss Stolzenbach is a graduate of the Ohio Wesleyan University and for more than one year was in the Washington department at Washington, D. C. She is well known in Lima social life.

Mr. Burns, well known to many Limaites, is a graduate of the University of Chicago, and is now assistant salesmanager for the Swift and company in the Metropolitan district.

The couple expect to make their home in New York city.

There were unnumberable affairs during the past week as a welcome to 1920. New Years have never receive a more jovial and noisy reception as on Wednesday evening. The local city clubs were especially gay with the holiday suggestions and noted augmented and jazz orchestras were brought here for the affairs. There were also cabaret artist sets. The final entertainment for the University and College students given on Friday evening by the Stroller club was a great success with about 85 couples in attendance. This was cured for the entertainment of the guests. Those not participating in these elaborate entertainments at the clubs enjoyed home affairs. The annual New Year's dance and every effort was put forth by the committee in charge to make it an unusual affair. The Regan's orchestra furnished the music for the long program of dances. Following the dance the guests were escorted to the Francada where a delicious luncheon was served.

There will be a full in the social activities during the coming week, and the women of the social world will resume their club work.

Miss Zelma C. Singleton, daughter of Mrs. Ella Singleton, of 819 north Elizabeth street, and Clem Owen Bailey, son of Mrs. Bailey, of 130 west Kibby street, were united in marriage Wednesday afternoon, at three o'clock at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. Hoffman, of Grace M. E. church. They were attended by Viola Singleton, sister of the bride, and Jim R. Bailey, brother of the groom.

The bride wore a charming dress of blue satin, and carried a corsage of roses and narcissus. A delicious two course dinner was served after the ceremony. The center piece was of red roses and narcissus. Guests included Mrs. E. Bailey, Mrs. Ella Singleton, Viola Singleton, Louis Singleton, Miss Bonnie Bailey, Harold Bailey, Mr and Mrs. A. W. Singleton, Jim and Ashley Bailey, Gladys Mills, Elsie Ulrich, Thelma McGeorge, Lawrence Curren, Mrs. C. E. Curren, Mrs. Martin Courtney, and bride and groom.

Word has been received of the marriage of Miss Lura Audrey Bateson to Dr. Mottier C. Pennypacker. The ceremony took place at 208 Scottwood apartments, Toledo, where the couple will make their home. The impressive ring ceremony was used. The bride was attended by Miss Catharine Orchard, of this city, and Dr. G. L. Mathewson acted as the bridegroom's attendant.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Lima High School. Miss Bateson has been popular in the younger set and will be missed by her many friends in this city. She has been employed at the Buckeye Pipe Lima company. Dr. Pennypacker is a graduate of the Ohio College of Surgery, and a member of the Psi Omega fraternity.

Immediately after the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Pennypacker left for Cleveland, Buffalo and New York. They will be at home to their many friends at 208 Scottwood apartment, Toledo.

Mrs. Ruth Kerr Hyter, of south Pierce street, will entertain the members of the Amata club with a dinner at the Lima Club on Thursday evening.

Stokes, of Detroit, on New Year's day at the apartment on north Collett street, where the couple expect to make their home. The ceremony was solemnized at 5:30 o'clock with Rev. Walter D. Love and Married Life

By IDA McGLONE GIBSON

JOHN'S VIEWS

"Have it that way if you will," said John, as he grinned wryly at my bitter remark about wives and respectability.

"But you were not born yesterday, Katherine. You must know that a man is more or less polygamous. One of your sex has said, 'Man was made so by the Creator to insure his scheme of things working out against any odds; therefore, there is no use of arguing about it.'"

"I didn't know, John, that you believed in the double standard."

"Why, of course I do, every man does. And so does every woman in her heart, but she won't own it!"

"No, John, you are mistaken. I think it is just as wrong for you to be untrue to me as for me to be untrue to you. And for that reason I want to tell you that so long as you receive Robert Gaylord, ask him to luncheon, and are a half fellow well met with him, I shall feel at perfect liberty to keep the bond of my friendship with Helen."

"What?"

"Yes, I mean just that! You remember the night that we ran away and married? In the morning when I called up Helen, even before I told her that we had been married the day before, she said: 'I am coming right to you!' There wasn't a question about our friendship under any circumstances."

NO IDEA OF MORALS

"That only strengthens me," said John gruffly, "in my belief that Helen Van Ness hasn't a proper conception of morals."

"John, I will not let you talk that way about Helen!"

"I'm sorry it displeases you, but it's my belief about that woman. She shall never cross the threshold of my house."

"Then Robert Gaylord shall never cross it, either," I answered with quite as much finality.

"Oh, you needn't bother about that," said John easily. "I've asked him and he declined, and I think it was because I had to make it clear to him that mother would not receive Helen. He had lunched with me two or three times before that, but since then he has seemed to avoid me."

I couldn't help but laugh, altho I knew the thing was not comedy—it was real tragedy.

John's assumption that Bob Gaylord would not resent a slight put upon his wife, even tho his marriage had been somewhat irregular, was irresistibly funny.

"What're you laughing about?" John asked impatiently.

"Why, dear, don't you understand that if a man cared enough for a woman to sacrifice not only his wife and children, but almost his good name for her sake, he certainly would resent any affront paid to her?"

"Well, if a man had any sense under these circumstances, he'd know he'd get many an affront. There are some things no man can do, and one of them is that he mustn't take the whole world into his confidence when he goes philandering."

"I don't think you practice what you preach, John."

SORRY FOR HER WORDS

I was sorry the words were out of my mouth.

"What do you mean now?" he asked.

"Nothing except that Alice has evidently been running across you and Elizabeth Moreland many times since I have been sick."

"Alice makes me tired! Just because she has happened to see me with Elizabeth Moreland dining at the club or in a restaurant once or twice she has put her own construction on the incidents. I want you to understand I am no Robert Gaylord. I wouldn't give you up for anyone on earth. You don't seem to realize, Katherine, that Bess Moreland and I have grown up together. She seems to understand me better than any other person. Sometimes she seems to voice my real thoughts even before I am cognizant of them myself."

I turned my face to the window. A leafless tendril from an overhanging vine had been loosened by the winds, and was sadly tapping against the pane.

CLINGING WOMAN LOST

So forlorn was the sound that the illustration impressed me. The clinging vine kind of woman is lost when she is separated from the thing to which she has learned to cling. Bess Moreland had wound her tendrils around John's habit of thought so closely in the years that they had been together that now that she had been forcibly separated from him she was persistently tapping, tapping at his heart, hoping to be able to find some place where again she might cling.

Was she just fulfilling the unwritten law of woman? Was I by my sturdy independence of thought and action breaking that law?

IN SUSIE SMART'S DAILY MAIL

For the benefit of "Can't Remember," I am again publishing the recipe for fruit cake. One cup of butter, 2 cups of sugar, 4 eggs, one and one-half cups of milk, 5 cups flour, 1 grated nutmeg, 1 teaspoonful cinnamon, 2 cups of walnut meats, 2 cups of seeded, halved raisins, 2 cups cleaned currants, one and one-half teaspoonful baking powder. Cream the sugar and butter and then beat in the eggs one at a time. Mix together the flour, baking powder, spices, nuts and fruit, add a little of this to the mixture, and the remainder alternately with the milk. Bake an hour and a half in a slow oven (350 degrees F.). This makes two good sized loaves and if wrapped in paraffin paper will keep for months.

Dear Miss Smart: Will you be good enough to advise where in this city, if there is such a place, one can rent fancy costumes for a masked ball? Please answer as soon as possible.

Ans. There is no such place in Lima that I know of, but I am giving you the address of a firm that specializes in such costumes. It is the M. C. Lilly Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Dear Miss Smart: I would like to entertain some lady friends in honor of a girl friend who is coming from Pennsylvania during January. Would it be all right for me to have a couple of tables or cards? Our home is quite small so I could not handle many. Would it be proper for me not to play? I am not a very good player. How may I be a good hostess? Could you suggest anything else in the way of entertainment that would be inexpensive and tell me how to go about it, decorating and such as I am so inexperienced.

Ans. Cards furnish very delightful entertainment. A small number, say three or four tables, is about the right number to have and it is not necessary that you play. After the game, you could have a contest, or two, and offer inexpensive prizes to the winners. Another good form of entertainment for a small number of guests is a theater party, either afternoon or evening. This eliminates the trouble of entertaining at home and you can invite your guests to a tea room or cafeteria for a light luncheon afterwards. If you have them at home, there is no better season in the year than the present one, when you can use holly and bells and red and green favors to such advantage in the decorations. Carry out the scheme of red and green in your luncheon if possible.

Dear Miss Smart: I am a young girl in this city with my sister and brother. Am very lonesome. I love to dance, skate and go horse-back riding. But I have not been introduced to anyone so far. I am not a flirt and will not be one.

Will you please tell me how I can get some nice friends? I have been used to going with the best of people where I came from.

I am eighteen years old and said to be very attractive. Anything you can say will be appreciated.

EDITH.

If your sister is not in a position to introduce you, join a Y. W. C. A.

There you will meet a desirable class of girls who will probably have congenial tastes.

Dear Miss Smart: I have a friend who is ten years younger than I am and she says she likes me very much, but she often meets my husband downtown and he takes her home in his car and does not tell me about it. Do you call that friendship? Please tell me what to do.

MAUDE.

You have no cause to be alarmed. Doubtless your husband drives your friend home because she is your friend and appeals to him, too. Probably he feels that you trust him enough not to question his motive. Stop worrying about this matter because it is not enough to make you doubt your husband's love and loyalty.

"THE PALISER CASE"

Copyright 1919 by the Wheeler Syndicate

BY EDGAR SALTUS

Every Evening in The News

WHEN Cassy had gone, Jones went back to his room. He went absent, his mind not on her story, which was old as the Palisades, but on a situation, entirely new, which it had suggested.

"Nice girl," he remarked as he re-entered the workshop. "Suppose we go and have dinner."

Somewhat Lennox looked up. At the table where he sat, he had been lingering some papers. He threw them down.

"I am going to have a word with Paliser."

Jones cocked an eye at him. "See here, you are not a knight-errant. The age of chivalry is over." The novelist paused and exclaimed: "What am I saying? The age of chivalry is not over. It can't be. Last night, Verelst dined with a monster!"

Lennox pushed the papers. "If I were alone concerned, I would thank Paliser. He has done me a good turn. He has set me straight."

Then, to the listening novelist, who later found the story very useful, Lennox repeated Cassy's version of the rhyme and reason of the broken engagement.

The tale of it concluded, Lennox flicked at a speck. "I am grateful to Paliser for that, but for the manner in which he treated her, I shall have a word with him. Just one."

Jones sat down. "A word, eh? Well, why not? Flipping a man in the face with a glove is fashionable in the days of Charles II. Twisting the nose was Georgian. The horse-whip went with Victoria. Posting your man was always rather coffee-house and a rough-and-tumble very hooligan. If I were you, which I am not, but if I were, I would adopt contemporary methods. To-day we just sit about and backbite. That is progress. Let me commend it to you."

With a wide movement, Lennox swept the papers, shoved them into a pocket and stood up.

Jones also stood up. "Got an appetite? Well, dining has the great disadvantage of taking it away. Come along."

Lennox put on his hat. "I am going first to Park Avenue."

"No you're not," thought Jones, who, with an agility which for him was phenomenal, hurried to the door and backed against it.

Lennox motioned him aside.

Jones, without budging, lied.

"They're out of town." It was very imbecile. He knew it was, knew, too, that Lennox knew it, and, for the imbecile lie, he substituted another. "I mean they are dining out."

"What the devil are you driving at?" Lennox asked, and not very civilly either.

"A windmill, I suppose. You look like one."

Jones broke off. The expression on Lennox' face arrested him. The attempt at interference, the stupid evasions, the conviction which these things produced, that there was something secreted, something about Margaret that Jones knew and which he was concealing, made him livid.

"Out with it."

Jones looked at him, looked away, adjusted his neckcloth, vacated the door, crossed the room and sat down. He did not know to what point to vow himself. But realising that it was all very useless, that everything, except such solicitude as one pilgrim may show to another, and that, anyway, Lennox would soon hear it, he gave it to him.

"She is engaged to Paliser."

Lennox, who was approaching, stopped short. "Miss Austin is?"

Jones nodded.

"To Paliser?"

But it seemed too rough and, to take the edge off, Jones added. "It may not be true."

"How did you hear?"

"Verelst told me. He dined there last night."

Lennox turned on his heel. Futilely in that hell to which one may look back and see that it was not hell but purgatory prior to paradise, futilely there he had sought the reason of his damnation. A few minutes before he had thought that Cassy's story revealed it. In the light of it he had not seen himself condemned, as many another had been, for crimes which he had not committed. But he had seen, oo, the order of release. He had only a word to say. He was going to Park Avenue to say it.

When Jones was below with Cassy so he had thought and not without gratitude to Paliser either. If the cad had held his tongue, enlightenment might have been withheld until to his spirit, freed perhaps in bladders, had come the revelation. Personally he was therefore grateful to Paliser. But vicariously he was bitter. For his treatment of that girl, punishment should follow.

That girl! Obscurely, in the laboratory of the sense where, without our knowledge, often against our will, our impulses are dictated, a process, intricate and interesting, which Stendhal called crystallization, was at work.

Unaware of that, conscious only of the moment, to his face had come the look and menace of the wolf.

Now—

"There is a book over there," Jones who was watching him, cut in. "It is Seneca's 'De animae tranquillitate'."

Take a peek at it. It will tell you, what it has told me, that whatever happens, happens because it had to happen and because it could not have been otherwise. There is no sounder lesson in mental tranquility."

But for all Lennox heard of that, he might then have been dead. Without knowing what he was doing, he sat down. Paliser, Margaret! Margaret, Paliser! Before him, on encephalic films, their forms and faces moved as clearly as though both were in the room. He saw them approaching, saw them embrace. The obsession of jealousy that creates the image, projected it. He had closed his eyes, covered his face with his hands. The image got behind them. It persisted but less insistently. The figures were still there. It was their consistency that seemed to fade. Where they had been were shadows—evil, shallow, malign, perverse, lurid as torches and yet but shades. For the jealousy that inflames love can also consume it and, when it does, it leaves ashes that are either sterile with indifference or potent with hate. At the shadows that were torches Lennox looked with closed eyes. Obscurely, without his knowledge, edge, in the laboratory of his senses, crystallization was at work.

Jones, leaping forward, touched him. "I say, old chap!"

Lennox had been far away, on a journey from which some men return, but never as they went. At Jones' touch he dropped his hands. The innate sentiment of form repossessed him. He straightened, looked about and, after the manner of the deeply preoccupied, who answer a question ten minutes after it is put, said evenly:

"Suppose we do."

Do what? But Jones, getting it at once, stood up. "Come along, then."

On the way to the neighbourly Athenaeum, the novelist talked endlessly of the disadvantages of not being born, which is a very safe subject. Talking still, he piloted Lennox to the dining-room where, the advantages of sedatives occurring to him, he ordered a bottle of Pommard, which is mother's milk.

But when it was brought Lennox would not touch it. He wanted brandy and soda and told Johnson, a captain, to see to it.

In the great high-ceiled room, other members were dining. From one of the tables Ogston sauntered over and, noting that Jones and Lennox had not dressed, which he had, and very beautifully, remarked brilliantly: "You fellows aren't going to the opera, are you? It's the last night."

It was another safe subject and Jones smiled falsely at him. "But you are, eh? Sit down."

Ogston put a hand on the novelist's chair. "No. 'm off to a theatre-party. But I have a ticket for the Metropolitan. You don't either of you want it, do you?"

"Let me see, what is it, to-night?" Jones, with that same false smile, enquired. "And where is the seat?"

"In Paliser's box. He's to be alone and left it here with a note asking me to join him."

Deeply, beneath his breath, Jones swore, but with the same smile, he tried to shift the subject. "You're quite a belle, aren't you?"

"See here, Ogston," Lennox put in, "let me have it."

Ogston, tumbling in his white waistcoat, extracted the ticket and handed it over.

"By the way, Lennox, do you mind my doing a little touting for Cantillon? He's with Duawoodie. Give him your law business—some of it, anyhow."

"I'll give him some, when I have it," answered Lennox, who was to have some, and sooner and far more monumentally, than either he, or even Jones, suspected.

"Good for you, Lennox. Good-night, Jones." The brilliant and beautifully dressed young man nodded and passed on.

But now the captain was bearing down on them.

Jones looked at Lennox. "You will have to come back to my shop after dinner. There is a phrase in your will that I omitted. I forgot the 'seized and possessed'."

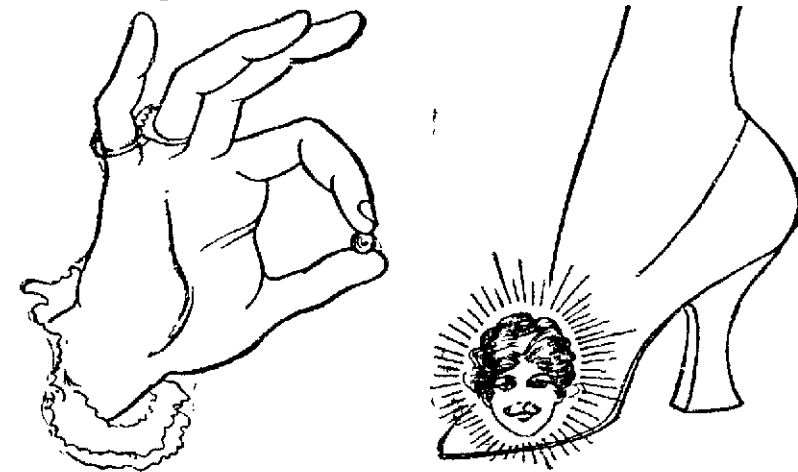

Lennox drank before he spoke. Then he said: "After dinner, I shall do for Paliser."

Jones, waiting until the captain had gone, looked at Lennox again. "The greatest revenge is the disdain of any."

Lennox made no reply. A waiter put a plate before him and another before Jones. Members passed, going to their tables or leaving them. Occasionally one of them stopped over the time of day and then exchanged the time of day and then passed on. In each exchange Jones collaborated. Lennox said nothing, the food before him he commented, poking it with a fork, but not eating it.

Presently he asked for coffee, drank a cup and got up.

Jones, too, got up and, to stay him, put out a hand.

Lennox, treating it, and him like a cobweb, went on.

Afterward, Jones thought of the Wild Women of whom Aeschylus tells, the terrible Daughters of Hades that lurk in the shadows of events, which, it may be, they have marshaled.

Afterward he thought of them. But at the moment, believing that Lennox would do nothing and realizing, that, in any event, nothing can be more futile than an attempt to avert the inevitable, he was about to resume his seat, when something on the floor attracted him. He bent over, took it, looked at it and tucked it in a pocket.

Then, sitting down again, mortally he followed Lennox, whom later he was to follow deep in the depths where the Wild Women, lurking in wait, had thrown him.

RUSH OF HUNTERS AFTER SKUNKS, FOXES AND BEAVERS

WEBSTER, Mass.—Lured by the present high market value of fur, about 600 men and boys are engaged in trapping skunks, muskrats, minks, foxes and beavers.

Never in the history of this section have the hares and sheds been bedecked with such valuable coverings. Thousands of dollars' worth of skins are hanging on the walls to "cure."

Fred Sherman, of Sterling Hill, Conn., nailed seventy-five skunk skins upon the wall of his barn in two weeks. His catch is worth $300. His father, well past seventy, is a fox hunter who holds the record in this district.

The meat of the skunk is not wasted. The people have what they call "skunk dinners." Those who eat at these "dinners" say the meat is as good as Spring lamb.

Why Not Be Happy?

ONE OF LIMA'S most popular doctors of divinity dropped into the sanctum yesterday, and greeting those about, branched into a brief conversation. "I have just officiated in laying away a grand old character, a man against whom no one has ever charged evil."

WHAT A REMARKABLE tribute this is in these days of grasp and grab; and the man of whom the good dominie spoke, had reached the mature age of more than four score years. He had been happy all his life, this newest matriculate on the register of St. Peter. He had spread happiness; yet he had none too great a proportion of this world's goods.

WHY NOT BE HAPPY while passing thru this lease given to us by Him above; why the struggle, the pettiness, the pussyfooting, the acrimony, the jealousy and the littleness so often met; too often rule, rather than exception.

IN THE BRIEF SPAN of years, and the years are none too many, what is it that we wish to accomplish for which we are willing to engender illness, break down nerves, go into bankruptcy? Why the hurry and the flurry of it all; seen from every angle, common sense tells us it is a rainbow; confronted at the death-bed, we know it was not worth while.

NO ONE CAN LEAVE a monument for more than one generation to gaze upon; no one can nor cares to underwrite an unborn generation; wealth is as much a handicap as an asset; while the shining vision in fashion spreads brilliancy but for a season, to give way to rarer beauty or youthful charm.

IN THIS NEW YEAR why not be happy; smile at the wearisome routine and laugh at the nightmare hoo-doo. We are here, and like on the day of the picnic, we can and we believe you will enjoy it all; like a holiday, and not like one endowed by vanity to rule or ruin.

Might Do This.

EVERY NEW ADMINISTRATION is looking for new worlds to conquer and this one which is gracing City Hall might well gain high popular favor by introducing a smoke nuisance ordinance. This favor would not be so noticeable among the owners of apartment houses and business blocks, but it would be very popular for every one else.

THE BURNING of soft coal has been a necessity during the war period and during the past few months, but with another year and all summer in which to contract for supply, as storage is lacking for big consumers, Council could well pass legislation which would bar soft coal in defined districts.

ANY ONE WALKING out Market street might well think himself in a smelting country with the huge smokestacks of a dozen different structures pouring the vile offal round about him.

Again Optimistic.

NEW YORK HAS TURNED optimistic again and is prepared to give the lambs a minuscule shearing between now and the end of the first quarter when the future can be viewed with more certainty.

PROMPTLY AT THE OPENING of the New Year, stocks and bonds started upward and call money fell to the moderate rate of six percent. The optimism thus imparted will be spread all over the country. Wall street hears all, sees all. It never runs counter to future conditions. It is discounting the first half of the year these days, and will take another peep about April first for the second half.

STEEL, MOTORS, Equipments, Papers, Oils, Textiles and Food shares are particularly favorites, while transportations remain dull. Translated into common vernacular, this means that Big Business sees wonderful demand for the steel and equipment lines when the railroads are returned March first; it knows that the demand for motors and oils can not be supplied in less than a year while papers, textiles and foods are sure of steady consumption.

MISS LIMA: "You may not be able to prove the girls propose in Leap Year, but it would be interesting to know how many jump at the dance."

Palmer's Round-up

THE DEPARTMENT OF justice has just rounded up some 4,500 anarchists who are charged with plotting to overthrow the government of the United States and set up a soviet regime here. They are held in every nook and corner of the country and it is declared that by the time the officials are thru with their work it will require an entire fleet of ships to take them out of this country.

STATEMENTS given out yesterday by high government officials show that the plot of the reds had advanced to the place where a general blow was to be struck soon. All plans had been laid for the work and guns, ammunition and bombs with which to murder our people had been brought together for use when the time came.

IT IS BELIEVED that the leaders who have been escaping in other raids and who later reorganized the anarchist forces for further activities have been captured. It is hoped that they have. There is no place in this country for them. No matter if it takes 50 ships to get rid of them. We should furnish the ships gladly to send those of the stripe of Berkman and Goldman to the same port to which they went.

A FEW GENERAL clean-ups of the kind just staged should permanently discourage those working with the red government of Russia to overthrow this nation. They certainly will awaken to the fact soon that they are operating in a country where they are not likely to make much headway. They will never be able to fasten their murderous clutches upon America.

The Divorce Evil.

STATISTICS just compiled for Allen county showing 850 marriages and 231 divorces during the last year are alarming. The divorce average is too high. When divorces reach this percentage there is something wrong with our system and a speedy readjustment is needed.

WHILE THERE are marriages there will be divorces. It will never be possible to do away with them. It is impossible for all unions to be happy affairs, but it is an unhappy state when nearly one out of four reach the divorce courts.

MANY REASONS are assigned for the increase. The war, which has been blamed for almost everything, comes in for its share on this score. It may be that it had some influence but it is hardly probable that it figured in more than a very few of the divorces of the last year. We were told that prohibition would cut down the duties of the divorce courts. It is time for it to get in its work if the increase in this evil is to be checked.

Short Ones.

LOOKS AS THO the ban is frozen down. AN EXPERT says sugar will be plentiful in the spring. What could be sweeter?

SOMETIMES it is quite embarrassing to have three or four "favorite sons" from the same state.

THE PEOPLE would be glad if Uncle Sam could get rid of the deficit before he releases the railroads.

YES, FRIEND WIFE who has just been trying to bake a pie or fry a piece of meat can tell you there is a gas shortage.

CANNOT SOMEONE break the monotony and do something original by announcing himself as a presidential impossibility?

NOW THEY say the big Collett street sewer may be held up. That's not news. It's been held up so long we are getting used to it.

WIVES WHO have tried it say the best way to domesticate the animal of the house is to go visiting and compel him to eat in restaurants.

MR. BURKHARDT says he's for Americanization. Well, Mr. Palmer ought to turn him loose on some of the 4,500 anarchists he has just rounded up.

IF NOBODY else wants to take the railroads, we will accept one—either the Pennsylvania or the New York Central. Let the D. T. & I. go back to the people who built it. They are to blame.

Presidential Possibilities

HIRAM JOHNSON

He Depends On Popular Primary

"Bosses" Regard Him As Too Radical

SENATOR'LL USE CLUB

Name to Be Submitted in 22 States

SAN FRANCISCO—United States Senator Hiram Johnson has set out to make himself presidential candidate by popular vote of the average citizen.

The foundation of his fight will be the presidential primary, existing in 22 states where the voters instruct party delegates by direct ballot. Realizing that his main opposition will come from Republican defectors who regard him as too radical, Johnson aims to club them into line by the force of popular demand.

Californians know this is the method by which Johnson wrested the control of the state government away from railroad interests, and made it the most representative state in the union to the popular will.

HIS PREPARATION "I'm playing horse with my grandchildren," was his reply when asked how he was preparing for the fight.

Johnson is a great lover of his home and family. His three sons are young men of the Rooseveltian type. The senator is an ardent football and boxing fan and can "go some" with the gloves himself.

Johnson, an attorney, entered political life about 1906. He was affiliated with the San Francisco reformers who put over the famous "graft prosecutions" against the Ruef-Schmitz regime.

When Francis J. Heney, special prosecutor, was shot down in the courtroom, Johnson took his place and secured the convictions of Boss Abe Ruef and became famous overnight.

The reform element then decided to clean up the state. Johnson ran for governor on the slogan "I will kick the railroad out of politics."

He carried on California's first campaign by auto, speaking in barns and at crossroads. He was elected by a majority of 22,000.

Four years later (1914) he was re-elected by 195,000. In 1916 he went to the Senate by the huge majority of 292,000.

The reason was that the people felt he had brought the government of California back into their hands. HIS ACHIEVEMENTS "Thru a strong 'Board of Control'"

ABE MARTIN

Don't seem a bit absurd, their joy in finding this new word; They're tickled as a kiddie with his Christmas morning drum; And when in what they've writ they've contrived a place for it. They're as pleased as young J. Horner was the day he found the plum!

KISMET

"It's too cold to laugh and it's too cold to cry. It's too cold to live and it's too cold to die. It's too cold for sadness; it's too cold for fun. It's too cold to walk and it's too cold to run. It's too cold to sing and it's too cold to fret. But it's just cold enough for the stuff you can't get." I can't get it either.

—Lester Lamb.

Leader in San Francisco Graft Prosecutions

JAILED BOSS ABE RUEF

Control of Big Business His Platform

His attitude toward labor was clearly shown by three items: a broad workmen's compensation law; protective laws for women and children in labor; and a persistent rejection of labor's bill forbidding the use of the injunction in strikes. In 1912, Johnson ran for vice president with Roosevelt, an Progressive Party ticket. This was his first entry into national politics. In the Senate, he was the first to raise the cry: "Withdraw our troops from Russia."

WHAT THE STARS PREDICT

The stars are friendly today. The public mind will likely be in a receptive mood today and long-hoped reforms will be accepted without controversy if brought forward today.

Marriages will not be so prevalent owing to economic conditions. Persons whose birthdate this is should guard their health this year. Children born today will be clever and fond to luxury.

TAX COLLECTION HEAVY The amount of $35,000 was collected in taxes by Lehr E. Miller, county treasurer, Friday. With the final time for tax paying only a little ways off, big corporations and railroads are now settling with the county. No taxes will be received after January 20.

But she is never too busy to keep a watchful eye on every one of the books and papers in her charge. She has really held the library together by sheer will power. When she thinks that a book has been out long enough she sends for it. If it isn't returned or a sufficient excuse given for its absence, she quietly takes it from her apron smooths her hair, and sallies forth. There has yet to be a treasury official so brave that he does not quail before Mrs. Triepel when she comes into his office with a determined glint in her eye and demands her books. She always returns to her own sanctum from such enterprises bearing her volumes triumphantly in her arms.

HEALTH ADVICE

By William Brady, M. D.

The late Prof. James, this being distinctly a psychological talk, asserted that the expression of emotions was not only an indication of the individual's feeling but a determinant of them. Thus, one may attain melancholy or cheerfulness by endeavoring to express the emotion with face and body. The same holds true of other emotions. This is not an idle theory; it often works. Mothers have considerable to say, of course it doesn't amount to so much nowadays, but they have considerable to say about what kind of adornment their daughters shall wear. A mother must be a good psychologist.

Every mother knows how the weak-minded girl of the streets dresses. Every woman knows how the fast woman dresses. There are certain characteristics invariably featured: Very high and very narrow French heels; very radical and very extreme adaptations of the fashion of the moment; very low cut necks; very noticeable rouge or powder; very pronounced affectations in the dressing of the hair.

When any of these stigmata of moral asthma ventures into school it is plainly the duty of the teacher or principal to eject it in a hurry, lest other mental defectives in the same class ape the exhibition. Some schools are dead to such opportunities for clarifying the atmosphere—and to everything else worth while.

A mother who permits a high school girl to adopt these extremes of adornment is taking long chances no matter whether the child has yet formed any character. "All the girls wear them" or "Why, mother, you're so old-fashioned," is not a plea to which a mother with a grain of common sense will listen. If a girl has outgrown her girlhood she ought to be ashamed to be dawdling in a high school. These dress follies are as much out of place in the high school as is the cigarette or pipe of your smart adult type of male, of whom far too many infest some high schools.

The idea is that it is wrong to encourage precocity by decking the child out in the habiliments of her wilder elders. It is shameful to acquiesce even passively in her gulleless desire to mimic the conventional chorus lady. Yet some mothers seem indifferent to all this. Therefore, the ownership of dress must be exercised by some one in the school. The ideal censor is the woman physical instructor.

QUESTION AND ANSWERS

Encouraging Peristalsis. Will you kindly suggest some exercise or exercises which will increase peristalsis and help overcome constipation? (R. W. Z.)

ANSWER—When beginning your exercise take half a dozen rolls on the floor to encourage circulation through the shoulders and thighs, press upon the abdomen, lie on your back, draw your hands on hips and squat very low so that knees make contact with chin or shoulders and thighs press upon the abdomen. Stand erect with hands stretched high above head and bend over to the right, bending knees as much as the left leg will permit. Repeat this fifteen to thirty times each night and morning.

Vaccinations Against Respiratory Infections. Last February all of our family (five) were vaccinated against influenza, or rather against pneumonia. This was because our neighbors all had severe colds, but we have and none. Do you think that may be due to the vaccine? Could a vaccine prevent ordinary colds? (Mrs. W.)

ANSWER—The vaccine (vaccine) usually injected in the effort to prevent influenza or pneumonia contains measured numbers of the killed bodies of various bacteria, especially the Pneumococcus (which causes pneumonia) and many so-called "colds," the Bacillus of influenza and certain Streptococci which add their own efforts to the nefarious activities of these other germs. However, the protection afforded by the vaccine is believed to endure for not more than six to eight weeks and so your immunity is more likely luck in escaping contact with the neighborhood "cold" carries.

To the Anomalous. Dr. Brady begs to remind readers that letters to him must be signed. This is a necessary rule of this department but the names of the writer are seen by no one but the editor himself.

Flacking Eyebrows. Does any harm come from plucking the eyebrows with tweezers? (Mrs. I. M. T.)

ANSWER—No harm. I have been told that milk is only a child's food, that it hardens the bones, etc. etc. is taken in quantities by an adult this hardening continues until it reaches the arteries. Does it? Would you advise one to discontinue milk?

ANSWER—It sounds like the kind of flapdoodle the modern species of charlatan hounds out to the people. Wise helmer family. I advise every man, woman and child to have at least one pint of pure fresh milk every day for life. If this advice were universally followed a whole lot of hardening and other pathological conditions would be prevented. Milk, fresh and undiluted, is the natural food for the child, should remain the mainstay of the child's diet until the child is ten years old. Price does not matter. Milk has never been sold at an exorbitant price, considering its vital importance in nutrition.

AS YOU LIKE IT

COLD WEATHER, ISN'T IT?

Dear Roy—In the theater the other night my neighbor mentioned with pride that he was to appear in the coming publication of "Who's who."

"Well," quickly remarked a friend of his, "were you in Russia, I suppose you'd be appearing in 'Vitch Is Vitch.'"—Dot.

One of the intense surprises of the year 1919 which has caused us distinct shocks is the announcement that Mr. Bryon may be a candidate for the presidency.

FATHER, DEAR FATHER, COME HOME WITH US NOW
The building formerly known as the White City Saloon is for rent.

Owners will remodel same to suit responsible tenant. A splendid place to keep cow and chickens. Inquire at street car office.—Centralia (Ill.) Sentinel.

Nothing much to swear off this time except your taxes.

Well, 1919 did her worst, but she didn't quite knock us out.

HOW ABOUT HETEROCLITIC?

Isn't it ridiculous the way the word "Metlicious"

Has seized upon the fancy of the writing? No matter what they write about, the coal strike or a cure for gout, They're bound to bring "metlicious" in if possibly they can.

What Will Pictures Bring in 1920?

Better Stories, Maybe! Some Coming From Europe!

Last Year Didn't Bring Much That is New

But Prices Went Higher and Still Go Up

A. D. 1920
What will the present year bring to the movies?
Better movie stories, perhaps. The tendency seems to be in that direction. Certainly there is room for such development.

The coming year will see the production of many movies in England, France and Italy. Doubtless some of these pictures by foreign producers will reach the United States early in 1920.

This competition is expected to exert a healthy influence on the making of pictures in this country. It will introduce other viewpoints and other artistic methods. Perhaps it will shake American producers out of the rut in which most of them were working in 1919.

Many good pictures were produced during the past year, but the development was slight. Rather the tendency was toward bringing old pictures to conform to a single popular standard. About the only new ideas were shown in the comedies of "Mack Sennett" and "Griffith's Broken Blossoms."

Nearly all the other pictures are easily matched by almost exactly similar pictures made in 1917. European producers did almost nothing during the war. Now, again they are at it. American producers, at the same time, are invading the foreign producing field, particularly in England.

And the average price of admission to the movies still goes up as out goes 1919 and in comes 1920.

Here's How To Write Successful Scenarios

THIS is the second article of a series by Monte M. Katterjohn, the famous scenario expert, in which he tells The News readers how to write plays for the motion picture screen. The opening installment was published last Sunday. Today Mr. Katterjohn gives plain and pertinent advice to amateur writers of scenarios. The third article of the series will be in next Sunday's News.

By MONTE M. KATTERJOHN

Scenario Writer, Producer of Katterjohn Plays and Author of "Carmen of the Klondike," "The Flame of the Yukon" and Other Famous Photoplays.

IN this installment it is my intention to give the amateur scenario writer my best advice on how to prepare his goods in order to obtain a market and get the best prices that such a market offers.

The amateur writer should not attempt to include technique in his play. It should be of sufficient length to tell the plot, clearly and completely; use simple language, and endeavor to make it read as interestingly as possible.

Have it typewritten, as no manuscript written with pen or pencil is ever read by the studio editor.

Use only one side of the paper in preparing the play.

Always enclose a self-addressed envelope when mailing to the scenario editor.

Place your name and address on the upper left hand corner of the manuscript.

DON'T WRITE LETTERS

Do not write a letter saying it is your first attempt. Do not try to joke with the editor or manager of production, and above all, don't try to play on the editor's sympathy.

Some persons write in that they hope their stories will be purchased as they are frightfully hard-up and in need of food and clothes. A writer who does these things never submits anything worth reading.

Give your story a title, as a majority of studios register all manuscripts under the title name.

It is not advisable for an outside writer to attempt to tell his story in continuity form. They should devote all their time to plot construction, characterization, and plot development. A great writer years ago said, "The play is the thing." With the screen writer, "The story is the thing." The outside writer should let the studio take care of the continuity.

In almost all studios the custom now is for the staff writer to submit to the production manager his story in detailed synopsis form. A consultation is then held in which the director, several of the players the production manager, and perhaps the cameraman participate.

PICKED TO PIECES

The synopsis is picked to pieces. dramatic situations are lifted out bodily, others added, characters are developed, and the play completely changed. Sometimes it is changed as much as seventy-five per cent.

It is then given back to the continuity writer to be placed in scene sequence. The continuity writer usually keeps in constant touch with the director at all times.

The staff writer, also knowing his continuity technique, and aware of the peculiar needs of his respective studio and what parts are best suited to the players, must even submit his story in synopsis form before it is mapped out in continuity. Occasionally, instead of submitting a synopsis in writing it is analyzed and discussed verbally before being placed in continuity form, but nevertheless, the principle is the same.

CAN'T CHANGE FORM

It can readily be seen that where a staff writer in a studio submits a synopsis before a continuity is started, there is no use whatever of the outside author taking time and labor in the attempt to hand in his play in this manner.

Some writers excel in taking another person's synopsis and making a continuity sheet from it. Others are better equipped to write an original synopsis. Some few have the rare combination of both attributes. It is the ability to put your story into words that counts.

And so we come to the plot itself, and its development. While it is now understood that the imagination is the basic principle of plot construction, yet the imagination must work along constructive workmanship lines, or it is liable to be erratic.

KNOW LITERATURE

A great many persons have vivid imaginations which at times seem to be nothing more or less than flights of fancy. The art of concentration must be utilized. Insane asylums are filled with untrained and undeveloped imaginations. To have a vivid imagination and then not be able to use it because of lack of training, is a tragedy.

To write plays for the screen the author should have a knowledge of literature, a knowledge of drama, and also be more or less a student of the screen drama. The more knowledge the writer has along these lines, the better chance he has of becoming a successful creator of picture stories.

In the News, next Sunday Mr. Katterjohn will tell in detail the best way to go about the selection of a theme. In reading these articles one should not forget that the author of this series is a highly paid scenario expert who knows not only what the moving picture companies want, but who has had years of experience in the actual preparation of manuscript for photoplays. Don't miss the next installment.

STAGE GETS TWO RECRUITS

Celebrated Sicilian and Leading London Actor in New York.

THE REVIEW OF THE RIALTO

New Year Sees Many New Plays Launched.

NEW YORK—Last week two notable recruits to the American stage were introduced in the celebrated Sicilian actress, Mimma Aguglia, and Godfrey Tearle, a leading London actor who, however was born in New York. Each proved that it requires more than histrionic genius to win success. There must also be a play, and in neither instance was the star deservedly supplied. Madame Aguglia triumphed as predicted, but her triumph was the greater because her play was the poorest of the two. Only her indomitable courage, her transcendent genius and powerful personality won such success as was achieved. "The Whirlwind," made from a complex and highly frogmure story, was rich in color and poor in merit. The producer was John Cort, and with Madame Aguglia came forth with creditable achievement. He gave the play a rich setting, and better still, gave Madame Aguglia to the English speaking stage. The story concerns the affairs of a Mexican Indian girl who is sought by an American officer and a Mexican of the popular type. "The American" wins the maiden, but not until she has gone thru her paces. It is a part which requires a combination of all the emotions known to the stage, and happily Madame Aguglia possesses them. It is melodrama of an old fashioned style, and the critics did not fancy its quality. They gave unstinted praise to the star, however, who is destined to play important roles on the American stage in our own language.

"Carnival" is the play selected by Mr. Tearle for his first appearance.

on the United States stage. He is the son of a noted player of a past generation, Osmund Tearle, who is remembered with affection by players of twenty-five or thirty years ago. The story is highly colorful, reaching its climax when the star, in the role of a Shakespearean actor, playing "Othello" for a moment, realizes the deception of his wife and seeks to strangle her in the famous jealousy scene between the Moor and Desdemona. The title finds its justification in a carnival scene in Venice when the lady in question "permits" attention to which she was not entitled. The play is not the sort of vehicle for so talented an actor as Mr. Tearle, who possesses unusual qualities for success. His misfortune was his play and his leading woman, Margot Kelly who, whatever may be her qualifications for erotic roles certainly does not inspire one with reverence or respect for Shakespeare if she be the heroines of "Othello." If Mr. Tearle and Madame Aguglia secure proper plays for the exploitation of their respective stage talents, we will be the gainer, and it is hoped that they may be more fortunate in their next attempt.

"For the Defense," a melodrama with recollections of "On Trial" by the same clever writer who contributed this melodrama several years ago, was one of the new plays

VAUDEVILLE

ORPHEUM — For today only there is a big double show combined into one program at the Orpheum theater—six acts of big-time vaudeville and five reels of the finest first run motion pictures, presented without extra charge of admission. The vaudeville is the last of the series of three extraordinary holiday attractions at the Orpheum, beginning Christmas Day and continuing thru New Year's week. Every one of the acts on the program ending today has scored a splendid hit upon every presentation. These acts are: Those Chinese Girls, the Misses Dong Font Gae and Mei Foy San, in a dazzling Oriental novelty; Kenny Mason and Scholl, performing "The Impossible Upon Roller Skates"; Briere and King, "The Little Girl from Boston and the Boy from New Orleans," in exclusive songs and sayings; The Boldens, a riot of blackface, darktown comicallies; Erick and Adaire, a man and a pretty maid, in "Things Delightful—Sung, Danced and Aid;" Melvone Miller, "Te Xylophone Girl." The photoplay feature for today only is lovely Corinne Griffith, in "Thin Ice," the story of a wonderful girl who treated upon dangerous ground.

Beginning Monday and continuing thru next Sunday night is one of the biggest novelties ever booked for presentation in a Lima theater. It is Kussell's original "Midnight Follies," the story of a wonderful girl, of the quaintest, strangest, most charming little folk in the world—Lilliputians just like those you read about in "Gulliver's Travels." There are 17 people in this company. They present full-sized, radiant musical comedy successes—one for the last half of the week and one for the first half of the week and next Sunday. There will be a complete change of gorgeous scenery and beautiful costumes for each extravaganza. Each of these gems of musical entertainment will be entirely different from anything heretofore offered locally. At the matinee at the Orpheum Monday, the scale of admission prices will be reduced to the standard charges of from ten to twenty cents for the matinee and to from ten to thirty-five cents for evening performances.

THE SCREEN

RECENT—"A photoplay which bears evidence of having been constructed solely for the purpose of entertainment" is the caption used with regard to Mabel Normand's newest Goldwyn photoplay, "Jinx," attraction at the Regent for three days commencing this afternoon.

The comment above was made by a noted critic of the photoplay and one readily surmises that "Jinx" is a play of laughter rather than of tears. Such as everybody will find it to be, according to the statement of C. Edgar Momand, manager of the Regent theatre, who said also that "there was not a sob or a weep in the whole of it."

Mr. Momand's avowed purpose in operating a theatre is primarily, to furnish entertainment for his patrons, believing that the public far greater appreciates stories of light and airy construction than the deep problem play where tears and misery and pain are called into play. Nor does he cater to the morbidly inclined of a community, but rather prefers to select his subjects from the number which possess the greatest popular appeal and carry the maximum amount of human interest, not for a moment forgetting the entertaining qualities.

"Jinx" is a story of circus life. Mabel Normand is the "Jinx" of the circus. And she will put the Jinx on your grouch, or your blues for the duration of her stay in the city. Wednesday will find the first showing of Chaplin's newest million dollar comedy, "A Day's Pleasure" which is to be shown in conjunction with Pauline Frederick's new Goldwyn picture, "The Loves of Letty."

"A DAY'S PLEASURE" Traffic is tied up for fifteen minutes, one traffic cop is dropped in a man-hole, the mayor and aldermen are tapped lightly on the head with a twelve-foot dry goods box and Charlie Chaplin is stuck in a pile of hot tar in the opening scenes. An unreliable auto, a wife without a mother to go to, a twin and an unfriendly traffic cop all combine to cause merriment in "A Day's Pleasure." Charlie has a lot of trouble with his Henry—more than any human ever had. But it all creates unbounded laughter for the photoplay fan. And that is Charlie Chaplin's mission in life.

"THE LOVES OF LETTY" A good-sounding title is the new Pauline Frederick picture which is to be seen Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Regent. It is the screen adaptation of Arthur Wing Pinero's stage play, "Letty," and has the distinct quality of popular appeal. Of course it will be found to be dramatic. And the star's role is perfect for so queenly a woman. The story concerns a woman who was admired by three men—by each in a different way. And she had to make decision. Which of the pictures did she turn to the wall? "The Loves of Letty" will possess infinite appeal to women.

FAUROT—A glimpse into the inner circle of the pugilistic world will be given screen lovers who see Charles Ray in his latest THOMAS H. Ince production "The Egg Crate Wallp." which comes as a Paramount-Artcraft picture to the Faurot today and Monday. The story concerns a Western country boy who developed his biceps juggling egg crates as helper to the express agent at Pitt's Junction. To clear his boss, who is also his sweetheart's father, of a serious charge, he leaves town and secures a job as sparring partner for a pugilist. Later he appears in the roped arena and lands a knock-out blow, which gains fame as the "egg crate wallp." on the jaw of the man who tried to frame the fight. Through his victory he discovers some things that enable him to straighten out the tangle in his home town and claim the hand of his girl.

Thomas H. Ince has provided an extremely realistic setting. The fight takes place in a ring that is regulation to the last detail. DeWitt VanCourt, who trained Jeffries and Corbett in his day, is referee, and the fighters, besides Charles Ray, include Al Kaufman, Ray Kirkwood, and Izzy Glasser.

Added features of today's bill include the Pathé News and a new Paramount-Briggs comedy, "Company."

Girls! Would you pay a dollar for a chance to win handsome Wallace Reid, the motion picture star, for a husband? Of course, he's happily married and has a little Wallace, Jr., and it's only in his latest Paramount-Artcraft picture, "The Lottery Man," which is coming to the Faurot on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, that he offers this unusual opportunity to the ladies. And $300,000 of them jump at the chance.

Mr. Reid has the role of breezy Jack Wright, who, being young, good looking, in debt, and jobless, started a lottery with himself the prize, offering to marry the woman who drew the lucky number. It was too late he fell in love with a pretty girl. To cap the climax, a homely old maid held the winning coupon.

The manner in which the star finally extricates himself from the mess and wins happiness and a fortune, furnishes side-splitting entertainment. The picture was adapted from Rida Johnson Young's play of the same name. Wanda Hawley and Harrison Ford are included in the cast, and James Cruze was the director.

Along with "The Lottery Man" the Faurot will offer the Pathe News and a charming new Paramount-Post Nature picture, "One Night in June."

One of the biggest sets ever erected under cover will be seen in Thomas H. Ince's latest Paramount photoplay "Stepping Out," in which Enid Bennett will be featured at the Faurot on Friday and Saturday.

The set represents a New York cafe and cabaret. It is two stories high, sixty feet wide and 75 feet deep. Previously it was the cost of moving picture makers to erect a down town cafe for such chances.

The new mammoth stages at the Ince studio make it possible to erect such a scene, which has the advantages of proper lighting effects in the studio not possible of attainment in a regular cafe.

In this scene several hundred men and women in evening clothes, a jazz band and many entertainers are used. Miss Bennett is finely supported, Niles Welch being her leading man.

Added features of this program embrace Topics of the Day, the Paramount Magazine and a new Capitol comedy, "A Much Needed Rest."

RIALTO — When George Walsh, the William Fox star, was asked recently, apropos of his new photoplay, "The Winning Stroke," to tell some of the daredevil pranks he committed at college, he smiled a droll smile and shook his head.

"I was a good boy at college, because," he stated, "he slapped his hands across his big biceps and paused reflectively; then continued: "I was so crazy about athletics when I was at college that, no matter how great the temptation, may have been to cut capers along with the fellows less ambitious in the line of sports, I held severely to the most rigorous discipline—not from any law-abiding goodness within me, but in order to let nothing debar me from the practice of athletics or from the event for which I was trying."

"I must admit," Walsh added with a twinkling eye, "that I liked athletics better than study, except my studies on physical training, and the one strong incentive that egged me on to get high credits—that is, high enough—was my love of college sports."

Walsh, who weighs some 180 pounds, stands 5 feet 11 inches, is of superb athletic build, is an expert swimmer and oarsman among other things, and has a chance to display these accomplishments in his latest photoplay "The Winning Stroke," which is to open today at the Rialto Theatre. In this play he is Buck Simmons, college athlete and hero.

RIALTO—"I've had requests for all sorts of souvenirs but this one beats the Dutch!" said William Farnum out in Hollywood, in the Fox studios during the filming of "Wolves of the Night." He had glanced casually at the beginning of a letter handed to him by his secretary and remarked with that winning Farnum smile:

"She wants a lock of my 'pretty curly hair,' as she calls it. Can you beat that?" Then he read the rest of the letter, and grew most serious, and handed the missive back to his secretary, as if they were too sacred for the general ear.

The letter had said: "Your lovely locks are just like my father's hair that I used to love to comb and curl while seated on Daddy's lap when I was a little girl, my father's pet. Daddy died in Africa, far away from me, and always my heart yearns for just one lock of the loveliest hair I ever saw. I see all your pictures and each time I long for a curl of the only hair I have seen that is like Daddy's. Please, Mr. Farnum, for memory's sake, do not this little favor." William Farnum appears at the Rialto Theatre Friday in "Wolves of the Night," a photoplay that is said to show this great star at his best with many charms beside his hair.

MAJESTIC—"Ruling Passions." Select Pictures' big, special attraction which comes to the Majestic theatre today and Monday, is a stirring drama of present-day social life in which Hate and Love, Revenge and Mercy clash and struggle for the mastery of the human heart. This is a story which has been written and directed by Abraham S. Schomer, featuring Julia Dean and Edwin Arden.

John Walton a wealthy broker, is embittered against the world, until under the strain of his violent temper, he suffers a nervous breakdown. Several nurses have failed to bring him back to health, until, as a last resort, his physician brings in Evelyn Roland, a clever nurse, whose belief in smiles and happiness is stronger than her faith in drugs. As time passes she learns from Walton's butler the cause of his hatred for the world. Years before he had befriended Alexander Vernon, an old schoolmate. The boy had come to him in rags, Walton lifted him to his feet, took him into his business, and a year later made him a partner in his firm. Still, Walton was unhappy. His love for Louise Palmer was not returned, but the time came, when thru an act of friendship to her brother, he was able to name the date of their wedding. Half in fun he asked his friend Vernon not to steal her love away, but when Vernon and Louise met for the first time they fell violently in love. Then came the day when Walton found them in each other's arms. A scene followed and then the dissolution of partnership.

LYRIC—Eugene O'Brien the most popular idol of the screen comes back to the Lyric today and tomorrow in his latest release, "The Broken Melody." It is a photoplay built around this Irish star's wonderful talents and will be a treat to the patrons of the Lyric.

With a manly manner, fine poise and magnificent physique, tall, straight, athletic, good-natured and forever smiling, Eugene O'Brien is just a "regular sort of fellow" with all the fine qualities that go to make a popular favorite.

He is Irish all through and proud of it. The ladies like him—the men like him—children adore him. Everybody likes Eugene and those who know him best like him most.

Men, women and children alike are bowing before his shrine; but he receives their votive offerings with modest diffidence, remaining all the while the man that he is—a man among men.

Eugene O'Brien's latest Selznick Picture, "The Broken Melody," to be shown at the Lyric today and tomorrow, it is a powerful drama of love and romance, in which the star is seen in all his manly manliness.

ROYAL—Abigail Prim is a name that some girls would consider a severe handicap in life. However, when it is abbreviated to Gail Prim, it isn't so bad. In fact it is rather catchy. Gail herself didn't have any particular trouble with her name. It is her father who takes most of the joy out of her life!

Jonas Prim believes in keeping his daughter well secluded from the wicked world. He even arranges for her to spend a few holidays at a house where there is a wealthy old man who is anxious to marry her.

This is too much for Gail. She runs away from home. She joins a gang who think that she is the "Os-kaloosa Kid," a noted criminal. To Gail has some thrilling adventures as the "Oskatoosa Kid," the chieftain coming when she meets the real "Kid" himself.

Evelyn Greely was never more charming than as Gail Prim, the runaway in "The Oakdale Affair." Her delightful personality finds ample scope to make itself felt.

Against the marvelous scenery of the Arizona wild places an exciting story of cowboy life is pictured in the new World release "The Arizona Cat Claw" starring Eddythe Sterling, which will be seen at the Royal theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday. This picture is a classic of its type and has for its leading character a typical western girl who thru being brought up among the cattlemen of the plains is more masculine than feminine.

Blossom Ruggles is a thoroughly western girl accustomed to spending all her time on horseback among men. She is the type of girl that has more man in her than woman and who is accustomed to viewing things from a man's viewpoint rather than a woman's. Accordingly she treats border ruffians with scant mercy, and has but little sympathy for those weaker than herself.

Eddythe Sterling is known as one of the most daring equestrians appearing in pictures and justifies this reputation several times over in

NEW YEAR'S COST OLIVE $50,000

Movie Star Loses Expensive Trinket While Celebrating.

NEW YORK—Olive Thomas, a movie star who is Mrs. Jack Pickford in private life, is seeking a $50,000 diamond bracelet she lost New Year's Eve, it was learned Saturday. This information was not obtained from a press agent. In fact, Mrs. Pickford says she wishes it was a press yarn. The bracelet was a Christmas present. The Telegraph had this to say about the trinket's disappearance Saturday:

"Mr. and Mrs. Pickford attended the Sixty Club dinner and party at the Ritz-Carlton on New's Eve, and just naturally, Mrs. Pickford wore the new present. She knows it was on her arm when she arrived, she believes it was in place after she had been there for some time. After that all memory ceases until, as the time came for her to go home, or when she was on her way home, she became conscious that it was gone."

AMERICAN WOMEN ARE SCORED BY LUIGI CURCI

CHICAGO—Amelita Galli-Curci, coloratura soprano of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, who is suing her husband, Luigi Curci, for divorce, "loves America, especially Chicago," according to three depositions filed here Saturday.

Luigi Curci, however, stated he considered America a good place to make money, but no place to live, according to the depositions. He said American women had no morals—that they have one husband today and another tomorrow.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION POSTPONED UNTIL MAY

Examination of school teachers of Allen county which in former years has been held the first Saturday in January was not held this year.

The examinations were cancelled until May, 1926, County Superintendent of Schools C. A. Arganbright said Saturday, because of recent action of the state legislature, changing date for county examinations.

SHOULD YOUR BABY CRAWL ON THE FLOOR

Millions of germs are tracked into your carpet and everybody's carpet on the shoes of the family. Should the baby be allowed to crawl around in these germs? The answer will surprise you. You can read it nowhere except in "The Autobiography of a Baby" appearing exclusively in this paper, beginning Monday, January 5th and once a week thereafter for a time in Dr. Brady's Health column on the editorial page.

Musical Fancy Runs To Jazz And Waltz

Jazzy fox trot and dreamy waltz music seems to be the go in Lima at this time.

A survey of musical stores regarding the most popular records during the past week reveals that Lima musical people are on the dance music rage.

Quartette songs likewise are popular the report from music stores shows.

The most popular selections as given by music dealers were: "Karavan," "Fox Trot," "What a Pal Was Mary," "Waltz," "Freckles," "Fox trot," "Yellow Dog Blues," "Fox Trot," "You'd Be Surprised," vocal, "I Am Always Building Castles in the Air," vocal; "Tell Mother I'll Be There," vocal.

madame also did interviews and finally she wrote a play.

Now the newest personage to seek a place among us writers is petite Marion Davies. We hear that Miss Davies is to have a page in one of the Philadelphia papers and in the Photoplay Journal. It is rumored that her literary work will be confined to special articles on fashions and if her page is as good a guide to fashions as her own wardrobe is we think we'll read it ourselves.

In this picture we just received from Marion it is hard to tell whether she is trying to think of some new fad to launch upon the feminine fashion fars or whether she is answering a letter from one of her ardent "Marion Davies fans."

A WALKING GEOGRAPHY

Lydia Yeamans Titus, who is a member of the Goldwyn repertory players, does other things beside appear in pictures. She is the standby of directors when they are a little uncertain as to the correct atmosphere for scenes in out-of-the-way places. There may be a few little countries tucked away here and there which Mrs. Titus has never visited but there aren't many of them. She has made forty trips to Europe and has been around the

Gossip of the Movies

Shirley Mason hunts the ledipoptera in their native haunts when she is not busy in the studios. In other words, the fair Shirley likes to chase the elusive butterfly near her bungalow in Hollywood, California. Shirley, you remember, is the younger sister of Viola Dana and Edna Plurath. She made a notable success touring the coast cities in "The Poor Little Rich Girl." It was just after this tour that she entered the movies. Now Miss Mason has become a star and she is one of the Fox Film's most popular leading women.

Shirley makes her friends in northern climes envious of her cool summer sports outfits. This is one of her favorite costumes, a white sweater of bright red and a white tailored skirt. There are plenty of movie bugs who will be attracted by the combination of such a fashion and such beauty even if butterflies are not.

COHEN'S FIRST FILM

Madge Kennedy's next Goldwyn picture will be "Two Cents Worth of Human Happiness." It is an original story by Cletavus Roy Cohen and is the first story to be put into film from the pen of this noted writer of quaint comedy. It is pronounced by studio associates to be one that will have a remarkable heart appeal.

ENGAGES LOUISE LOVELY

William Fox has engaged again Louise Lovely to support William Farnum in all the features he will make on the coast next year. Miss Lovely was with the Fox star in the five pictures he made in California during the early part of this year. The new contract begins about Feb. 1, and, despite many other offers, Miss Lovely may take a rest until the Farnum company arrives in Los Angeles.

A PERFECT CAST

Here is our idea of a perfect cast: Matt Moore will play the lead, opposite Madge Kennedy in a Marshall Neilan production.

It seems the style these days for picture stars to conduct a magazine department or write a book or play or perhaps a bit of poetry. Remember Doug Fairbanks' book to the effect of "laugh and grow fat." Then came Bill Hart's gun and finally Will Rogers decided that he ought to try the pen instead of the barrel. In the realm of poetry there is Doris Kenyon, who simply cannot keep her poems and lofty verse out of the daily papers, and in the magazine department Olga Petrova seems to have a great deal to say. First, Petrova wrote poetry, then she wrote intimate chats with picture fans, conducted by herself in her own way in one of the current magazines. The

POET'S BRIDE AND MRS. VANDERBILT LEADING FIGURES AT BLUE BIRD BALL

Mrs. Maurice Maeterlinck, the play-wright's young bride, and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., photographed at the Blue Bird Ball.

NEW YORK—Maurice Maeterlinck, given in his honor at the Waldorf-Astoria, at which his young wife and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., were the most prominent feminine figures, was musically painful to him, he revealed after the ball. But the affair pleased him because of the great delight he felt in viewing the beautiful faces.

"This—what you say—this 'jazz' puts my brain in such a whirl that I have rested my head from it all day long," he complained, "and all this butling and dancing is maddening to one like me. But, ah, the mademoiselles! Never have I seen such beauty as in these United States girls. I pity the man who could not look last night as I did."

Close friends and co-workers admit the poet has absolutely no interest in the success of the Blue Bird opera. It would not surprise them to have him give up his lecturing tour and sail for home. When asked about this he said:

"I came to see America and lecture—would I not be a queer creature not to see the thing thru?"

In keeping with "seeing the thing thru," he attended the official Belgian dinner given at the Ritz-Carlton by special order of the king and queen. But pleading and urging could not induce him to wear his decorations and medals. The Belgian consul was especially desirous that he wear the decoration of the grand officer of the court, which title was given him by the Belgian king many years ago. But Maeterlinck was obdurate. He put the matter to the reporters who interviewed him.

"Why, it is as big as a dishpan—so," he illustrated.

"It would look crazy. They would all take me for a chocolate peddler. You would not wear such a thing, here would you?"

The poet delights in his six weeks' term of English study, altho apologetic about it. His hosts say he spends much time reading English poetry and trying to get the idioms and slang.

"I fear I will be as a clown speaking to the people," Maeterlinck said. "I will be as ready with their tongue as I can."

The poet will not speak of psychic things. "That will all be in my lectures," he says. "Yes, I will say that I do not think that as yet we can see any spiritual results which the war has brought. It is too soon."

The telephone jingled and the great, rugged-faced dreamer prepared for flight. "I think this telephone is the worst invention of mankind," he said; "no escape, no rest. Never before have I lived with one, and never again will I do so. The strong walls of my villa will give me time for thought and keep the world out."

as lawyer and author, has but few intellectual peers among the younger generations.

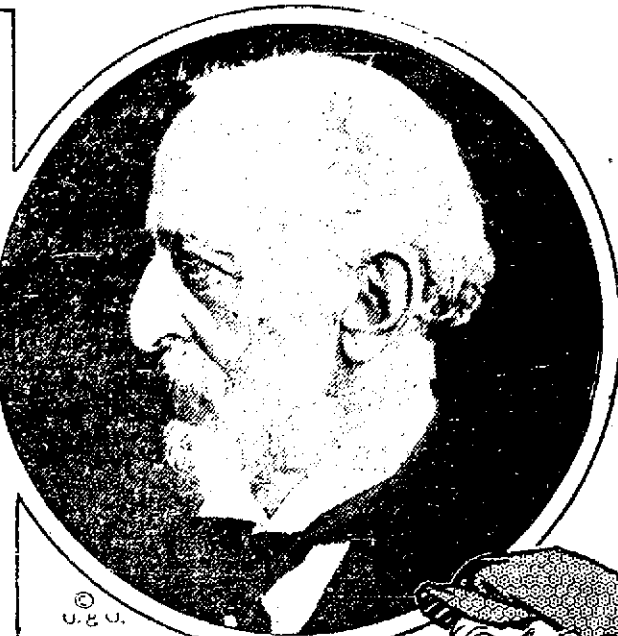

AND if you want an instance of one whose muscles at seventy-four retain the vigor of youth together with an uncommon vigor of the mind, take a look at "Bill" Sewall, former woodsman, guide to the late Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and one time collector of customs in Houlton, Me. A forty-mile "hike" through the Maine woods has no terrors for him; and recently he was blithely on his way ascending the stairs of the Metropolitan tower, in New York, at a time when a strike had tied up the elevators. He was determined to attend a meeting of the Roosevelt Memorial Association on the twenty-ninth floor. Fortunately, some one was found accommodating enough to "break" the strike on one of the elevators long enough to relieve him of the Herculean task of walking up.

Among others who are not yet quite up to the biblical limit, but whose mental and bodily vigor gives promise of carrying them far beyond it into the Vedic regions of longevity, is David Jayne Hill, whose sixty-seven years are so gracefully borne by him that you might easily mistake his picture for that of a man of thirty-five. He is active as a diplomat, historian and president of the National Association for Constitutional Government.

DAVID JAYNE HILL

WHEN John D. Rockefeller celebrated his eightieth birthday anniversary July 8 last he said to his neighbors at Tarrytown, who had called to congratulate him: "I hope you will all live to be not only eighty years old, but ninety or a hundred, for I have just begun to live."

According to the Upanishads, which constitute the philosophical part of the Veda—the Bible of the Brahmins—man's life should normally be 100 years.

Up to the ninetieth year death is invariably the result of sickness in one form or the other. Between ninety and one hundred the cessation to live is that form of death which is called euthanasia, from two Greek words meaning pleasant death. It is only between ninety and one hundred years, therefore, that people really die of old age.

Mr. Rockefeller, therefore, expressed no extravagant hope toward his neighbors that they might attain not only to his age, "but ninety or a hundred." And the famous Doctor Osler, who recommended the chloroforming of people at sixty or so, must have had regard to a degenerate race, which grows aged at a time when, normally, life should really be at its prime.

In his article on "Longevity" in the Encyclopedia Britannica Professor Peter Chalmers Mitchell, lecturer on zoology at Oxford University, says:

"The expectation of life of those who attain the age of sixty varies with race, sex and occupation, but is certainly increasing, and an increasing number of persons have a chance of reaching and do reach ages between ninety and one hundred."

Much, of course, depends upon how an individual is constituted, whether life at from eighty upward can be tolerable to him or not. With a good, cheerful disposition, it is easy to understand how one may view life as a blessing even at a time when the more nimble qualities of the body have ceased to exert themselves, and the susceptibility to pleasure through those channels no longer exists. For, in all periods of the world's history, sages have contended that the highest and truest pleasures are those of the mind; and a well-conserved person suffers no sensible abatement of the vigor of his mind no matter to what age he may attain.

Therefore, another condition of happiness in old age, in addition to a vigorous and well-trained mind, is that one have no need of earning a livelihood at that period of life.

Although one's character is a fixed, unvarying factor, whether for selfishness or altruism, for cruelty or benignity, for self-indulgence or abstinence, the temperament may be, and usually is, different at different periods of one's life. So that the motives which appeal to selfishness at one period may, owing to the changed temperament, fail to make any impression at another period; and the man whose youthful cruelty manifested itself by torturing insects or other small animals, and later by brutal treatment of men, may wind up by torturing himself and immolating himself for others in an effort to attain to salvation.

ANOTHER condition essential to happiness in old age is that the temperament be in harmony with the powers which one possesses; for, if a cruel person retain the hasty temperament of youth, his old age cannot, but be filled with much unhappiness, unless, like some emperor of old, he have the power to indulge his frightful proclivities.

In childhood we lay the foundation for our knowledge of the types or ideals which become, so to speak, the criteria of all our subsequently acquired knowledge. For, in childhood, whatever we see for the first time stands in our mind as representative of its entire species.

It is precisely because of this beauty which the mind of the child has dreamed into the world that the youth and the maiden, just emerging from childhood, are filled with such high hopes of playing important roles amid those beautiful scenes and events. And then comes the disenchantment. They discover that the ideals which had seemed so easy of attainment can be reached, if at all, only through so many trials, tribulations, heartaches and disappointments that when, at last, they are attained, they are found to be scarcely worth the possessing. Hence the "vanity of vanities" of King Solomon and of all others whom history has stamped as wise.

With the passing of childhood the will assumes the leadership in life. But, although disappointed and disillusioned in so many things, we still hope on for a happiness which floats vaguely before our eyes like a will o' the-wisp, and it is not until late in life that we finally realize that the best, after all, is not to expect to find happiness on earth, but to aim at warding off unhappiness. Most persons who have spent their lives seeking happiness have for the most part ruined themselves in health and financially by hoping to find that happiness in pleasures; whereas they who merely content themselves with endeavoring to ward off unhappiness have necessarily conserved both health and fortune, as these are the indispensable means toward that end.

Such a man is Mr. Rockefeller. And, when he wishes his friends and neighbors as long a life as his own, the wish, no doubt, is coupled with the assumption that it will be as wisely spent a life as his.

AMERICA is fortunate in the possession of many men who, like Mr. Rockefeller, have passed the Biblical "three-score-and-ten" mark, and still find the sands of life running strong and their minds as vigorous as in the prime of youth, or even more so now than then. Prominent among them is the author, William Dean Howells, who at eighty-two is as active mentally as if time had no more impression upon him than water upon the back of the proverbial duck. His muscles may not be as pliant as they were half a century ago, but his mind continues to shine with undiminished luster.

Another octogenarian who has come through life to the sunny uplands from which he can survey the world with the pleasant consciousness of possessing a mind in which the fire of genius burns with as bright a luster as in youth is John Burroughs. At eighty-two he still retains the enviable pre-eminence of being the world's foremost naturalist and one of its foremost authors. Former United States Senator Elihu Root is seventy-four. His face is that of a well-preserved man of forty-five or so. And his mind is recognized the world over as well-nigh peerless in that form of reasoning which makes him perhaps the most astute lawyer of this age and one of its greatest diplomats.

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, has not ceased to be a mental giant, despite the eighty-five years which he numbers. He was appointed by President Wilson to be one of the twenty-two men to represent the general public at the national conference on labor in Washington.

And who does not know of the wonderful mental vigor of Uncle "Joe" Cannon, who has made things hum in Congress since he first went there as representative in 1873? He is eighty-three; but his intellect is as keen and alert as ever.

The brilliant wit, the unsurpassed humor, the unfailing eloquence which made Chauncey M. Depew famous fifty years ago are unabated and, if anything, more scintillant, more laughter-provoking, more irresistible now, after he has turned his eighty-fifth birthday anniversary, than ever before.

At eighty-four, Lyman Abbott, editor in chief of the Outlook, retains the same mighty intellect which distinguished him in his early manhood as lawyer and clergyman.

Everett P. Wheeler at seventy-nine, both established as fair. He is sixty-nine. Nor should Corporal James Tanner, register of wills, be omitted in this list of young old men. He has been selected as representative of the G. A. R. to witness the First Division review from the official stand. He lost both legs in battle in the civil war and claims the distinction of being the only veteran who has answered every roll-call of the annual encampments of the G. A. R.

WOMEN HELPING TAKE CENSUS

Changes Are Made Necessary in Local Enumerators.
MANY QUESTIONS TO ANSWER
Figures May Be Announced Here by March.

When Lima's little lady census enumerators call at your door, who would refuse to answer their questions?

And five Lima women are among those who are acting for Congress and the United States in securing the data Uncle Sam wants.

They are Miss Roberta Mori, 431 south Pine street, in District 32; Mrs. Lillian Ruth Conrad, 1036 west Wayne street, District 26; Miss Corinne A. Westhay, 512 west Wayne street, District 18; Miss Helen Cox, 629 south Main street, District 25; Mrs. J. Miller Laudick, 849 west Market street, District 34.

At the last meeting, due to illness, M. L. Roeder, Bath township, failed to qualify. Jesse H. Rublin was appointed.

Rev. P. G. Bergener, Delphos, was stricken with paralysis and was unable to serve his son, Harold F. Bergener, was appointed.

Henry P. Reel, 351 east High street, was unable to serve on account of illness. Miss Westhay took his place.

John E. Conrad, 1036 west Wayne street, sustained an accident and could not serve. His daughter, Miss Lillian Ruth Conrad, is serving in his place.

A. D. Stapp, 126 Euclid avenue, moved from the district. Miss Helen Cox was appointed to serve.

J. Miller Laudick, 849 west Market street, was unable to serve and his wife, Margaret Laudick, is acting.

Charles E. Waggoner, 314 south Pine street, was succeeded by Chas. J. Seitz when he was unable to serve.

Raymond T. O'Brien, a soldier boy, succeeded P. J. O'Brien, 997 north West street and Lester J. Berry took the place of William G. Reynolds, Spencerville. Both were unable to qualify because of illness.

Enumerators will call at every dwelling house in this community to secure the information necessary to fill out the questions contained on the printed census schedules.

Questions covering the following points will be asked of every person in the United States: Sex, color or race, age at last birthday, whether single, married, widowed or divorced; birthplace of person enumerated and birthplaces of father and mother, giving dates of both countries and provinces; foreign born; occupation, specifying trade or profession; also industry in which employed; whether attending school; whether able to read, whether able to write, whether able to speak English; whether he is owned or rented, and if owned whether home is free of encumbrance or is mortgaged.

Persons of foreign birth will be asked questions concerning these additional points:

Year of immigration to the United States; whether naturalized and if so the year of naturalization; mother tongue or native language.

Census enumerators will call at every farm in the community to secure information necessary to fill out the questions contained on the agriculture schedule.

Each farmer will be asked questions concerning the acreage and value of his farm; whether he owns, rents, or partly owns and partly rents the land he farms; the value of the buildings, machinery and implements belonging to his farm; the quantity of all crops raised on his farm during the year 1919, and many other questions which include all possible farm operations.

The official population for the next ten years will be determined by the census of 1920.

First census figures will be published the latter part of February, C. A. Stoltz, Greenville, supervisor of the census of the Third Ohio District, announced upon a visit to the board of elections Saturday. Stoltz stated the work in Allen county was progressing most satisfactorily. Facts concerning Allen county will most probably be ready by March, he said.

CRIME WAVE LAW AS BOOZE WANES

Prosecutor Believes Prohibition Has Good Effect.

FEW JURY CASES IN DRY DAYS
January Term Has Small Docket for Investigation.

Prohibition is ascribed by Prosecuting Attorney John L. Cable as the cause of the few number of cases which will be submitted to the January grand jury, when it convenes Monday morning.

It will be the smallest number of cases to be considered at the January term in many years. A special session of the grand jury two months ago helped to clean up matters somewhat, but at that, the number of cases to be considered now is small.

Among the cases are: William A. Tompkinson, abandonment of sick woman, Verona, Bernold, since October, 1919.

Michael Ruxinger, assault upon John Siminowski on October 22.

John Pilliod, assault with intent to rape Mrs. May Knittle, 747 Arch avenue, October 31.

Floyd Schulenberg, assault and battery upon Lena Bond, April 30, 1919.

George Aldea, larceny in the sum of $40, personal property of Dan Motan.

C. L. Donnbauer and L. Draine, larceny of $44.80, consisting of 640 feet of lumber, the personal property of the Western Ohio railway company.

Maurice Smith, larceny of a pocket-book, money and checks, valued at $83, the personal property of Mrs. Adeline Schottelkorb, November 25.

David Owen, assault and battery on Myrl L. Copeland, November 26.

Clifford Cunningham, non-support of William Cunningham, fifteen-months-old, since November 26 and abandonment of his wife, Helen Cunningham, ill.

Members of the January grand jury are: H. A. Cook, Westminster; Frank Cassidy, American township; E. J. Overholt, O. M. Thomas, L. E. Kilgore, Joseph McClurg, all of Lima; P. F. Heidebaugh, Delphos; Rufus Core, S. P. Albright and John M. Berry, all of Cairo; B. A. Crites, Elida; C. B. Hanes, Shawnee township; Time McGriff, Bluffton.

150,000 Women Employed in American Laundries

The Laundryowner's National Association figures show that probably in excess of 150,000 women are engaged in some division of the family washing departments of modern American laundries.

Only a few years ago there were none employed except for shirt and collar work.

The increase of family washing work was so gradual up to a few years ago that, quite naturally, the average housewife has not, perhaps, realized the extent to which the laundry has supplanted home wash day. We who are in the business have known for some time that we must eventually do practically all of the nation's wash.

Like good public servants (and the laundry is essentially a public service) we have prepared to meet the situation.

The equipment, knowledge, skill and scientific methods employed today by all first class laundries would be a revelation to those women who are not familiar with the advance made by laundryowners in this new field.

And the end is not yet. Fine as is the work now being done, the near future will see still further improvement. Then you will witness family washings as far superior to home work as laundered shirts and collars are superior to the old home product.

Try our family washing service. You will be pleased and you will save money. Our rate is only a few cents a pound. All flat pieces are nicely ironed, the balance returned ready to iron. Prompt, dependable service.

Short Shavings

"Well, by Jove, this is lucky!" cried a young man, as he heartily slapped the back of a gentleman whom he overtook in the street. The other turned around sharply and angrily, showing his face to a comely stranger.

"I thought it was my friend, Jackson," said the young man, confused.

"All right," said the stranger, and he doubled the young man up with a tremendous poke in the waistcoat.

"What did you do that for?"

"I thought that was what Jackson ought to do," remarked the stranger as he resumed his interrupted walk.

"My darling," said a fond mother, who believed in appealing to children's tender feelings instead of punishing them, "if you are so naughty you will grieve mamma so that she will get ill and have to be in bed in a dark room, and take nasty medicine, and then she may die and have to be taken away out to the cemetery and be buried, and you—"

The child had become more solemn, but an angelic smile overcame his face at his mother's last words, and, throwing his arms about her neck, he exclaimed:

"Oh, mamma, and may I sit beside the coachman?"

"That girl of mine is the most tender-hearted in the world," said old Mrs. Smuggles.

"She doesn't look it!" thought her hearer, but, aloud, said politely:

"What makes you say that, Mrs. Smuggles?"

"Well, you know," said Mrs. Smuggles, "she stays in her room every Monday—can't bear to see her old mother doing the family wash."

"Your little dog," remarked Jenkins, "looks very old. What did you have him stall out for?"

"We simply had to do it," replied Dobson, "he wagged it so much, and we live in a flat, you know."

"ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE"

and on this seeming fact is built the fortunes of the unscrupulous "patent" medicine venders who infect our land. Back of every unpleasant symptom there is a cause and until you find and eradicate the cause, disease will invariably creep upon you and you may make the rounds of all the "internal" or "rub-on" patent dopes on the market and cause still exists.

Men pass through this life and reach the brink of the grave carrying the same old aches and pains with them and using the same old dopes as their forefathers did before them.

WHY? Because they don't think nor seek to find the cause.

The most common of all surgical operations is that for the removal of the appendix. Little do you realize the seriousness of that operation which, as a rule, only welcomes another operation for complication. But have "set in" since the "one" operation. It would be folly for me to state that Appendectomy is not necessary in some cases, but those cases are rare.

APPENDICITIS means inflammation of the Appendix. Many cases pronounced appendicitis are only gaseous disturbances of the bowel, intestinal indigestion, etc. The value of our Appendix is beyond question today inasmuch as it acts as a lubricating cup to the head of the large colon. The appendix secretes a milky fluid which acts as an oil to the head of the large bowel and in this way prevents a "dry bowel."

In the majority of cases where the appendix is removed without cause the patient suffers severe constipation and is not free from the old pain which is very annoying.

You may have Appendicitis but the operation will not remove the cause. One must get at the cause of a condition before the patient has good health. To remove any organ of the body, no matter how small, you produce discord within the body because the other organs are compelled to do the work of the absent organ. To have a good working motor all parts must work in harmony.

To get at the cause of the so-called Appendicitis is a easy task for a capable Chiropractor. Why? We know that the cause of 95% disease within the body is pressure on Nerves, and in 95% of the cases we prove our point.

In every case of Appendicitis you will always find pressure on the nerves that lead to the organ and tissue in that area.

The pressure on these nerves is caused by a displaced vertebrae (spinal segment) possibly resulting from a fall, twist, jolt or blow some time in life.

By scientifically restoring the displaced vertebrae back to its normal position thru the Chiropractic Adjustment the pressure is removed on the nerves governing the action of the Appendix and by removing the Cause in this manner the inflammation disappears with the result of Health.

Do not make the mistake of jumping headlong into an operation without trying this wonderful health science that gives you health without an unnecessary operation.

Knowledge of my method of Chiropractic Adjustment convinces the prejudiced mind of its value in successfully eliminating and preventing disease, without harm owing to its scientific points paramount of all other health methods.
